Ss. Alycone Angel, British freighter which developed "rudder trouble" at Port Alberni, is in Esquimalt graving dock for a new rudder. Rudder was chewed up when it broke horizontally and the lower half swung back against the propeller. Propeller can be repaired, but Yarrow's Limited will build a new rudder unless a suitable one can be purchased as replacement. (See story on page 13. Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

MOVING DOUK SECT MAY COST $1,000,000

Committee Thinks 'Sons' Should Repay Part of High Expenditure

Relocation of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors at Adams Lake, 100 miles from Kamloops, could cost as high as $1,000,000, according to the report of the consultative committee on the problem.

The committee recommended that the Sons of Freedom should be required to repay part of this capital cost, but the Doukhobors do not agree. They argue they have lost their lands twice in Canada, and have nothing to show for 50 years' work.

Between 250 and 500 families would move to Adams Lake, if that location is finally chosen. The $1,000,000 cost, which could be considerably lower if fewer families move, would be made available for land clearing and irrigation, erection of buildings and maintenance while waiting for a first crop.

CANADIAN KNOWN HERE GOES TO JAIL FOR SWINDLING WIFE

LONDON, March 21 (CP).—Herbert S. Gallagher, 46, Canadian electrical engineer who has served prison terms in Vancouver and Victoria, today was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for swindling his wife.

He was charged with obtaining money under false pretences and pleaded guilty to three counts involving £8,650.

But police said the woman, Edith Frideswide Gallagher, parted with about £15,000. She had only about £30 left in the bank.

Police said Gallagher served six months for false pretences in Vancouver and a short term for theft in Victoria.

Willows Racing Memories Told in Times' Magazine

Of all the interesting memories N. de Bertrand Lugrin has recalled in her articles in the magazine section of the Victoria Sunday Times none will be read with greater interest than her "Epitaph to the Old Fairgrounds" in tomorrow's issue.

It deals with the old Willows. For racing fans, longing for a race track here again, it will bring back the days when they could dash out from work in time to get to the track for a ticket on Jessie McKenzie's sprinter, Killarney Bell; Dr. Clarke's Bernice E. mile and halfer; Mailnee Idol; John Morrill; Buckhorn II, a fine two-miler; Pearl Boots or Hurn's Cavalcade II, usually ridden by one of his sons, Dave or Paul. Remember them?

The author recalls the famous stock parades, the midways and how the old exhibition was a place where everybody you had missed during the rest of the year saw among the 232,000 who passed through the turnstiles.

The old memories stir regret that in the march of building progress the old Willows will be nothing but a memory within the next few months.

Manslaughter Trial Must Go to Jury; Scene Viewed

VICTORIAN QUILTS HIGH OTTAWA POST

Max Mackenzie Joins Celenese

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP).—Victorian Max W. Mackenzie, deputy minister of defense production and one of the government's top economic advisers, is resigning from his post, it was learned today.

After about 13 years of association with the government in various high-level positions, the 44-year-old economist is accepting an appointment with the Canadian Celenese Corporation.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is expected to make an announcement shortly on the resignation and the appointment of a successor.

Mackenzie, who was born in Victoria, was right-hand man to C. D. Howe, both in defense production and the trade department where he was deputy for six years.

A chartered accountant, Mackenzie came to the government in 1939 to help set up the War-time Prices and Trade Board in 1942 and became deputy chairman the following year. He became deputy minister of trade in 1945 and when Canada embarked on its three-year $5,000,000,000 defense production program in 1951 he became deputy minister of the new defense production department.

Clear Weather Aids Search For Aircraft

MCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, March 21 (AP).—Clearing weather spurred the air search today for Stanley Page, Walla Walla architect missing on a private plane flight since Wednesday afternoon.

Page, 35, left Boeing Field in Seattle at 3:50 p.m. en route to Walla Walla. He has not been heard from since.

Planes from the Fourth Air Rescue Squadron began a route and land rescue search Thursday and land rescue teams were alerted near Snoqualmie Pass. Two search headquarters were set up at Renton and Ellensburg.

Worst Snow in 60 Years Ties Up Western States

By UNITED PRESS

The mountain area of the west today was choked with the worst winter-long accumulation of snow in 60 years.

More than 1,500 persons were marooned. Supplies were running low. Major transcontinental highways were blocked—and more snow was falling.

In addition, the late season snowfall greatly increased the danger of floods in the event of a sudden thaw, which would loose torrents of water from the mountains.

In northeastern Colorado and Wyoming, a fresh spring snow—the worst since the paralyzing snows of December—struck. Forecasters said it would go "over a foot" in Denver.

The public bus system in Denver, which daily carries 20,000 persons, was stopped by the storm.

At least four persons were dead in Colorado—three in traffic accidents caused by the weather and the fourth probably from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Farther to the west in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, ranchers faced a possible $10,000,000 property and livestock loss.

Nevada Governor Charles Russell appealed to President Truman to declare a section of the state a disaster area, and the chief executive promised to do so.

The days moved to Victoria in 1891. The father started the insurance firm which still bears his name.

HIT BY MOTORCYCLE, GIRL LIES UNCONSCIOUS

A 14-year-old girl lies unconscious and seriously injured in Jubilee Hospital today after being struck by a motorcycle on Esquimalt Road early this morning.

Suffering a possible fractured skull, fractured left leg and lacerations, is Janet Wright, 734 Wilson.

Police said she was struck while crossing Esquimalt at Rothwell about 8:30 this morning.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wright.

The motorcycle was driven by Donald J. Brown, 437 Constance Avenue, police reported.

They said the girl struck her head on the curb following the collision with the motorcycle.

B.C. TIGHTENS UP ON MEAT SHIPMENTS

Only Live Animals Will Be Permitted to Cross Border From Prairies; Permit Delay Protested

EDMONTON, March 21 (CP).—Agriculture Minister David Ure today bitterly denounced the B.C. government's regulations for easing that province's ban on prairie livestock. He said "all it does is attempt to split Alberta and our livestock industry into two separate parts."

He was trying to arrange plane passage to Victoria today to protest in person to the B.C. agriculture department and attempt to arrange a better solution to the problem.

British Columbia, yielding to the demands of the cattle industry, today tightened up once again on its meat and livestock embargo relaxed only last Wednesday.

The agriculture department has ruled that only live animals (cattle, sheep and swine) can be imported to B.C. They must be slaughtered immediately on arrival.

No more permits will be issued for importation of carcasses, but those already in B.C. en route to market will be allowed to continue to destination.

The embargo was imposed three weeks ago to guard the province against the dread foot-and-mouth disease which broke out near Regina.

Dr. W. R. Gunn, livestock commissioner, has informed all interested parties of the new ruling which will stand until further notice. Telegrams went out this morning to livestock brokers, stockmen, freight yards and agents, R.C.M.P., slaughterhouses and packers.

The order is effective immediately, but it will be reviewed from time to time as the situation warrants.

Live animals to be imported to B.C. still must go through the rigid inspection service set up earlier in the week. Approval certificates must be issued by

When the permit arrives it has to be taken to the Health of Animals Division and certified before being turned over to agents in the Edmonton area for filling of the order.

Confusion still reigns in Alberta livestock circles over regulations easing the B.C. livestock ban.

Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman announced last night that Alberta livestock would be allowed to cross the border into British Columbia and not Calgary because the Alberta capital is more remote from the foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan. He said some permits giving packers permission to bring dressed meat and livestock into B.C. already had been issued.

But livestock officials in Edmonton apparently were still awaiting receipt of these permits so shipping could get under way.

MANITOBA FOLLOWS

Canada's livestock industry took another step towards normality Thursday when Manitoba followed the lead of British Columbia and relaxed its restrictions.

However, the province retained its embargo on cattle, rawhides, wool, skins and bones and the transport of livestock through the province to eastern markets.

Four Academy Awards for Victorian

A Victorian was among the Hollywood personalities who stepped up to the stage of the Pantages Theatre Thursday night to receive an Academy Award "oscar."

He is Richard Day, winner of the prize for the best art direction in a black-and-white movie in 1951. He received his award for his work in "Streetcar Named Desire."

If any of this year's prize-winners felt at home on the stage, Day should have been the one. He has received Oscars on three previous occasions.

Day was born in Victoria and went to University School here. He was one of six children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Day, who built a fine home on Rockland Avenue when that street was little more than a cow trail.

The Days moved to Victoria in 1891. The father started the insurance firm which still bears his name.

Day went to Hollywood after returning from service overseas in the First World War with the Canadian Army. He has lived there ever since. His last visit to Victoria was made 15 years ago.

He won earlier Oscars for art direction in "The Dark Angel," "Dodsworth," and "How Green Was My Valley."

Sexton Testifies Wife Was Driving Death Car

Trial of Frederick Sexton on a charge of manslaughter continued today despite Sexton's Thursday testimony that his wife, not he, was driving the car that struck and killed tiny Elizabeth Fisher last Dec. 12.

Question of whether or not Sexton was criminally negligent and was the principal offender in the incident will likely be dealt with by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson in his summation to the jury later this afternoon.

The judge's summary of the trial was to be given as soon as final arguments for conviction and counter arguments for acquittal had been presented by the two counsel.

Joseph McKenna is Crown prosecutor in the case and Gordon Poupore is acting for the defense.

This morning, jury members visited the scene of the fatality on Gladstone Avenue and then heard further evidence in court from the accused, and Crown witnesses Roy F. Harris and Constable Walter Calwell.

Harris was recalled at the request of the jury. He reiterated earlier testimony that he had seen Sexton get out of the left-hand front door of the car.

Constable Calwell was questioned as to whether or not Sexton could have left the car by the right door and walked around the back, as he claimed. Calwell said the rear of the car was jammed against a fence and that it was not likely anyone could have walked around behind it. Under cross-examination, he admitted, Sexton could have gone around the back if he had jumped the fence twice.

The case was scheduled to go to the jury later this afternoon. Harry W. Norris is jury foreman.

Thursday Sexton denied being the driver of a car which struck and killed the three-year-old girl last Dec. 12.

He took the stand in his own behalf Thursday afternoon, and testified his wife, Helen, was behind the wheel at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Sexton backed up her husband's testimony. She said she had not revealed before that she was driving, because her husband had wanted to assume the responsibility.

Sexton testified he had given a signed statement to police, declaring himself the driver, in order to protect his wife.

Accused said his wife had never before driven an automobile and that the day of the accident was the first time he had given in to her repeated requests to learn.

He admitted starting the car outside their home, 1561 Gladstone, but said his wife drove from there to Belmont and Gladstone, where the accident occurred.

CAR MOUNTED CURB

He said the car had stopped just before reaching the intersection and he had told his wife about using only a light touch on the accelerator. When the car started, he said, she stepped down hard on the accelerator and the car leaped forward and mounted a curb.

Sexton said he saw the child on her tricycle and used his own foot on the brake pedal to try and stop the car before it hit the youngster.

REACHED FOR KEY

When the car came to a stop against the base of a telephone pole, Sexton said he opened the door on the right-hand side of the car and went around the back. Then, he reached in on the left-hand side and switched off the ignition key.

He said he then picked up the child who was lying on the boulevard.

TUBBY HUBBY DIET

Night Snacks Will Beat Halkett, Says Our Tom

Before . . . After

"Friendly warning from a subscriber," said a note enclosing this Ted Key cartoon from Better Homes and Gardens.

Daren't make any more lapses in the Josephine Lowman 12-day diet now. There's money on it.

Photographer Bill Halkett was reported at last.

He stepped on the scales and registered an exact 171 from a starting weight of 175.

"Try and beat that," he said gloatingly.

Halkett Scales for me registered 175%. Original weight was 179%.

Both down exactly four pounds. Now it is a contest with a substantial bet on it.

Bill has an advantage though. He never takes breakfast. Josephine is usually very generous at breakfast. It is the only meal at which I regard her with true affection.

Lunch is also quite casual to Halkett. However, for lunch, if he has any, and for dinner he religiously follows Josephine's book.

What breaks Bill down . . . and this is what I am counting on to win . . . he hates the long hungry evenings.

Every night before retiring he's used to eating two or three hefty sandwiches made out of everything in the 'frig he can pack into them, topped by two or three cups of coffee. "Now I miss them!" he said. "Now I eat two or three apples instead but they don't fill the bill."

I don't think he will stick it out. I'm basing a bet on Bill's weakness for Dagwoods.

Today, however, I feel humble. All this blather about a 12-day diet and Harold Walker tells me how he was once on a diet for six months. It was a case of life or death and it was a memorable day in the grim battle when he was promoted from milk to pabulum.

Naturally he never wants to see another diet.

"You should be picketed by husbands for what you are doing," he said bitterly. "What do you think other wives are going to demand their husbands do when they see the graceful, streamlined, sylphlike silhouette of yourself which I suppose you expect to publish on the 12th day?"

Honestly, I hadn't thought of anything like that.

But what a thought! What inspiration! What a mark to aim at!

It has renewed my enthusiasm. Josephine, to the last minute of the last day I'm going to be faithful—faithful to the last spoonful of cottage cheese and glass of skimmed milk.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

My newspaper friend, who has been covering the multi-million dollar business of British Columbia in the legislature for several years, wasn't conditioned for his first visit to his district's P.T.A. My friend listened for half an hour to reports on expenditures running from a few cents to a few dollars and wondered why such small sums needed discussion.

My friend grew a little bored with the whole show. When a full occurred in proceedings, about 40 minutes from the start, my friend thought he'd end all the dullness and let the good people go home, back to their books or their mending. He stood up and spoke up, moving the meeting to be adjourned. After that the gathering grew quite lively and most of the liveliness came his way.

Stott

The meeting continued, and when it ended, my friend and his wife walked home in a painful silence until they reached the house. Then the great debate was resumed—the wife leading. She was a little heated in her attack on a guy who moved adjournment just because he wasn't interested.

Now P.T.A.'s can't always count on people like my newspaper friend to inject life into their sessions when they begin to lag. But if you're worried about the dull spots in your own P.T.A. gatherings, there's a simple remedy for them.

Just stand up and speak up, asking, "What do you think of the report cards?" Then beat it down to the basement for a smoke. Half an hour later you can return to the meeting and it'll still be buzzing with members making like hornets around a broken nest.

Trigger Words to Parents

Report cards are trigger words in almost any P.T.A. Parents don't like them. Parents want to know how their kids are doing in class, where they stand and how much they made in different subjects.

To me, the present report card is like a Bach fugue. I don't understand music, either. I've heard the explanations. I've been told why the cards are made up as they are. But I'm just a stupid old reactionary. I still want to know how the youngsters are doing, and I want to know in specific terms.

I'm told that it's pretty rough on the kid who skids along at the bottom of the class if his attention is drawn, by specific report cards, to the fact that he is skidding along at the bottom of the class. It gives him an inferiority complex. I'm not well enough versed in behaviourism to note the adverse results of that in later life. In fact I can't lay my finger on adult frustrations whose frustration dates from ranking 35th in a class of 35 all through school. I'm just that ignorant.

Maybe They Ought To Be Told

When I suggest to teachers that some one ought to tell the tail-enders that they are tail-enders, in a nice gentle way, of course, they explain that the children at the bottom of the class should know they're not doing too well when their reports read alphabetically from C-minus downward. If that is so, why not let them know more definitely?

It would be tough on a kid who collected a lot of D's and D-minuses to think that he might be ranking 35th out of 35 when all the time he's 34th. He might get the idea that he was at the extreme bottom of the class when he wasn't.

Isn't that teachers don't know where their pupils stand. The teachers' work sheets are made out in figures, marks, that is, and then transcribed to letters.

Shouldn't the parents know what's what and what they may be able to do to improve junior's standing? They might, if they were informed, even try to make junior pull up his socks. Perhaps that would be considered riding the kid and adding to his frustration. Under some circumstances, it might be even that.

But at least it wouldn't be frustrating the parents and making them more angry with a school system which doesn't deserve nearly as much hostility as it is shown in certain quarters.

There are a lot of things over which parents have little jurisdiction in the schools. They can't do much about curricula. But if the schools are going to make the gesture of reporting to them on their children's progress, the report should tell them the facts in terms they can understand.

It's time for a change in the report card system. Raise the issue at your next P.T.A. meeting again and see if the members don't agree.

C.C.F. Officers To Try Again For Election

Grant MacNell, former C.C.F. M.L.A. and present provincial president, and Alex B. MacDonald, party executive member, were chosen Thursday night as C.C.F. standard bearers for Vancouver-Burrard in the provincial election.

There was no opposition. Both were C.C.F. candidates in the 1949 contest.

Meanwhile, at Trail, Dr. C. A. H. Wright will be Progressive Conservative candidate for Rossland-Trail riding.

Dr. Wright, a leader in community projects and known throughout the province for his Chamber of Commerce and other activities, was chosen at a nominating convention attended by close to 200. He defeated Mayor E. G. Fletcher of Trail for the nomination.

TRUMAN WILL KEEP CONTROL DOWN TO WIRE

Refuses to Reveal Election Plans

KEY WEST, Fla., March 21 (UP).—President Truman may not stand for re-election, but for the present he does not want to be counted out as a possible candidate.

This turned out to be the burden of his remarks in which he appeared to repudiate the public beliefs of Frank E. McKinney, Democratic national chairman who until Thursday thought the chief executive was a poor chance to run again should peace develop in Korea.

The people around the chief executive said his indirect slap at McKinney meant no impending discipline for the chairman. The staff at the winter White House interpreted Mr. Truman's statements to his press conference Thursday to mean that "the boss" wants to remain in control of the Democratic situation until the last possible moment.

If the President wants to run again, he feels that he can say so right up until time for the Democratic convention in July.

The tenor of the President's news conference remarks at the winter White House indicated that he is not on the verge of saying what he will do, despite urgent pleas to the contrary from some of the Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill.

When reporters suggested that McKinney might favor an announcement at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Washington March 29 and certainly no later than May 15, when the party's executive committee meets to plan the Chicago convention, the President merely said that he would set his own date when he was good and ready.

Preliminary figures indicate that the 262 seats in the Commons will be divided in the next Parliament in following way, old representation in brackets.

Newfoundland 7 (7), Prince Edward Island 4 (4), Nova Scotia 12 (13), New Brunswick 10 (10), Quebec 75 (73), Ontario 85 (83), Manitoba 14 (16), Saskatchewan 15 (20), Alberta 17 (17), British Columbia 22 (18), Yukon 1 (1).

The Saskatchewan figures may affect some of the leading personalities in the federal house.

Those holding Saskatchewan seats which may disappear include Agriculture Minister Gardiner, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and John Diefenbaker, leading Progressive Conservative member.

Other developments on the Legislature front include:

ONTARIO
Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario brought down his 10th budget which revealed that municipalities will be able to tax business and administrative offices of the Provincial government and the hydro-electric power commission increasing their revenue by $4,000,000. No new taxes were announced.

ALBERTA
Supporting his resolution that the Alberta government has erred in overemphasizing "progressive" education in the province, Hugh John Macdonald (L. Calgary) said that the "come book" is the symbol of the depth of interest in most public-school students. He contended that the present system does not endeavor to give a broad understanding of literature and history.

The government members of the Manitoba House defeated six want-of-confidence motions—four by the Progressive Conservatives and two by the C.C.F.

Sask. Would Peg Redistribution

By CANADIAN PRESS

A constitutional amendment to prevent any province from losing more than 10 per cent of its Federal members in any redistribution was requested Thursday by the Saskatchewan Legislature.

The resolution, which drew support from both sides of the House was aimed at preventing Saskatchewan from losing more than two seats in the coming redistribution.

In its redistribution resolution, the Saskatchewan House noted that it was likely to drop the province's representation in the House of Commons from 20 seats to 15. The impending cut is a result of the drop in Saskatchewan's population.

A parliamentary committee normally redistributes seats every 10 years—following the decennial census. Until 1947, Quebec was used as the basis for fixing representation. The province had 65 seats and the quotient reached by dividing that figure into the province's population was used to fix representation in other provinces.

The new formula will use the population of the country as a whole, rather than just Quebec. Exceptions are that the Yukon is guaranteed a seat, and no province may have fewer members of the Commons than it has senators.

Preliminary figures indicate that the 262 seats in the Commons will be divided in the next Parliament in following way, old representation in brackets.

Newfoundland 7 (7), Prince Edward Island 4 (4), Nova Scotia 12 (13), New Brunswick 10 (10), Quebec 75 (73), Ontario 85 (83), Manitoba 14 (16), Saskatchewan 15 (20), Alberta 17 (17), British Columbia 22 (18), Yukon 1 (1).

House Halts Squamish Highway Plan, Favoring Capilano Watershed Route

The Legislature late Thursday night adopted its railway committee report urging postponement of Premier Byron Johnson's plan to build a Squamish-Vancouver highway along the Howe Sound route.

The committee wants the alternative route through Capilano and the Greater Vancouver watershed investigated further with a possible view to saving the Howe Sound route for extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Premier Johnson earlier had agreed to the committee recommendation.

Remainder of the committee recommendations, also approved by the House, urged extension of the P.G.E. into Vancouver and the Peace River as soon as possible. Further study to the possibility of building the Squamish-Vancouver highway and road along the same shoreline route also was recommended.

The report was brought in by Glen Braden (Govt., Peace River), committee chairman.

Negotiations will now be resumed with the water board to see if it will change its mind and grant permission for construction of the road through the watershed.

WAR—American Sabre jet pilots said today they spotted a full flight of new "type 15" Communist jet fighters in Korea's Mig Alley Thursday, the first time the new enemy planes have appeared in strength.

The new high-wing enemy jets refused to fight, but the Sabre jets shot down five slightly smaller, low-winged Mig-15 jets, damaged eight and probably damaged five more.

The ground war remained stagnant, with the Reds pushing three small probes at Allied lines on the western front. The Communists stepped up their shelling of U.N. rear positions.

BUZZING—In Cairo, Prime Minister Hily Pasha said today his government will not "give in one inch on national demands—the evacuation of British troops and unity with the Sudan."

He denied rumors of an impending resignation of the government.

Cairo has been buzzing with rumors of an impending cabinet resignation, suspension of the constitutional regime and setting up of a military dictatorship.

SATISFACTORY—In Paris, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain said today the western powers are making "very satisfactory" progress in their study of a reply to Russia's latest proposal for an all-German peace treaty.

Eden, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France and Ambassador James Dunn of the United States met with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany in the French Foreign Ministry.

INDIGNANT—The Penticton, B.C. Junior Chamber of Commerce denied today that it was responsible for theft of a 1,000-pound concrete replica of Okanagan Lake's legendary sea monster, Ogopogo.

The statue was stolen from a pool at the entrance to a Kelowna park. Both Kelowna and Penticton are located on Okanagan Lake.

President Tommy Walker of the Penticton Jaycees asked indignantly: "What would we've got the real Ogopogo splashing around in our front yard most of the time?"

KILLED—A Royal Canadian Air Force Vampire jet fighter crashed about a mile beyond the runway at the Chatham, N.B. air base Thursday, killing the pilot, Flying Officer Allan Seavy, 21, of Regina, Sask.

Witnesses said the plane crashed shortly after Seavy took off from the base.

MAJOR—In Toronto, Germany today planned a major rally into the Canadian market with 150 firms assigned space at the Canadian International Trade Fair this spring.

Dr. Herbert Graf, director of the German-Canadian trade promotion office, said Thursday night that his country's exhibition may be the third largest at the fair, in which most countries in the west and some in the Far East are expected to show their products.

"Canada is a rough market," Graf said, "but Germans are tremendously interested in it because they consider it a constant one."

CRISIS—In Capetown, South Africa, Opposition Leader Jacobus Strauss today demanded the Nationalist government resign and new elections be held as a result of the country's grave constitutional crisis.

Head of the United Party, he said the crisis was provoked by Prime Minister Malan's refusal to accept Thursday's supreme court judgment which dealt a blow to his racial segregation policy. The court ruled unconstitutional the government's law cutting down voting rights of colored (mixed race) voters in Cape Province.

STRIKE—In Vancouver some 120 employees of West Coast Woolen Mills in Vancouver have voted in favor of strike action to support demands for higher wages and shorter hours.

The members of the C.C.L. Textile Workers Industrial Union meet Sunday to set a strike deadline.

The vote for strike action was approved by 83 per cent of the employees.

The union recently rejected a majority conciliation board report recommending acceptance of a five per cent wage hike.

BRAVOS—In London John Colicos, 23-year-old Montreal actor who has been here since November to try his luck on the London stage, got his big chance Thursday night at the world-famous Old Vic Theatre.

He was suddenly summoned to take over the leading role in Shakespeare's King Lear when Stephen Murray, who was to have played it, fell ill with laryngitis.

Colicos, nearly six feet tall, was Murray's understudy in the part. He got rousing "bravos" from a critical audience for his interpretation of the tragic monarch.

The Canadian had eight years of acting under his belt when he came here and got a three-line part in the production.

Allied Leader Says Demands for Speedy Korea Truce Agreement Adds to Problems

PANMUNJOM, Korea, March 21 (UP)—Red truce negotiators proposed today that both sides agree to release all mistreated prisoners without further squabbling over missing captives.

The Communist "compromise" proposal provided for the freeing of only the 11,559 Allied and 132,474 Red prisoners whose names already have been exchanged. Of the Allied prisoners, 3,198 are Americans.

It in effect would write off at least for the present 53,000 additional Allied troops, including 1,388 Americans, who disappeared in Red captivity and 44,000 Communist prisoners allegedly held but not reported by the U.N.

NOTHING NEW—Allied representatives shrugged off the proposal. They said it contained "absolutely nothing new."

Carnegie Club Holds Novel Speech Contest—Newly-formed Carnegie International Club, Victoria Branch, held a grab-bag topic test at its first meeting.

Members, all graduates of a public speaking course, drew such items as a potato, compact, toy boat and onion from a paper sack and gave impromptu speeches. Mrs. Sheila McIvor was the winner.

Officers elected at the meeting were: Norman Worsley, president; J. R. Hewitt, vice-president; Miss Erica van Engel, secretary; Harry Gibb, treasurer; Col. Don McGugan, parliamentarian.

CHEATS IN GOOD CAUSE—GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP)—Flabbergasted Red Cross workers watched a slight young woman calmly pick two paperweights from her pocket and leave them before walking from the blood centre. The extra weight had brought her to the minimum 120 pounds for donors. Red Cross workers were so amazed they didn't get her name.

Mrs. Seeberg Committed on Murder Count

PENTICTON March 21 (CP)—Mrs. Ingrid Seeberg of Vancouver, Thursday was committed for trial on a charge she murdered her invalid baby daughter.

Mrs. Seeberg's husband, Manfred, and their year-old child, Victoria, were found dead March 2 in an auto-cabin near Penticton. An analyst testified poison was the cause of death.

Police allege they died in a plot between the parents to kill the ailing child and then take their own lives. Mrs. Seeberg survived.

Magistrate G. A. McLelland ruled that the 22-year-old woman stand trial at the Spring Assizes in Vernon, scheduled to open in April.

REDUCED TOLL—From 1926 to 1948 premature births caused 1,463 deaths in every 100,000 Canadian births; in 1950 the rate was 613.

B.C.'s New Gas Well Great Prospect

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney announced in the Legislature Thursday a new well in the Peace River is capable of producing commercial quantities of natural gas.

The well, according to tests, could produce 9,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, Kenney said. It is situated near Fort St. John.

The minister told the House he had just been informed by telegram of the test results.

Speculation is the only way in which private individuals can participate in oil development, said Allan McDonnell (P.C., Vancouver Centre).

asked Kenney if his department had any guarantee that land held under oil exploration permits was really being developed or just being held for speculation. Winch noted 72 individuals hold permits in the province, and only 48 oil companies.

"Individuals have the same right as companies to take out permits," replied Kenney. "But I have no doubt there is speculation going on."

Speculation is the only way in which private individuals can participate in oil development, said Allan McDonnell (P.C., Vancouver Centre).

BEAR DESCRIBED—FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—A motorist called police to report he had to drive around a mud-splattered animal standing in the road, which was "awful mean looking, had a pointed nose, a small head, waddled like a duck, had light green eyes and was about the size of a large dog."

Officers, who failed to find the creature, deduced it probably was a bear.

WINCH WANTS UNION HOURS

House Too Weary for Work When Estimates Come Late

Union hours for members of the Legislature were suggested late Thursday night by C.C.F. Leader Harold Winch.

Winch objected at about 11 when Premier Byron Johnson went into estimates of the finance department. He was "amazed" such an important piece of business would be brought up so late at night.

Members, he said, start work at 9 in the morning and couldn't intelligently consider estimates after such a long day. He suggested the premier was trying to rush the session to get rid of the Legislature.

The House adjourned about half an hour later.

Staggering Figures

MR. ABBOTT'S ESTIMATES OF EXPENDITURE for the next fiscal year seem to cancel out any prospect of significant tax reductions. Mr. St. Laurent already has warned the taxpayer that his present load will continue. Mr. Abbott shows him why.

The new budget, as now estimated, totals $4.3 billions but in the end it will be more than that. There are always unexpected expenses (amounting in the current fiscal year to several hundred millions). But even if spending were held to its roughly estimated level it would be impossible for the government to cut taxes much without running the risk of a heavy deficit.

Mr. St. Laurent estimated in Parliament the other day that the current surplus—so grossly misrepresented and exaggerated by the Conservative party—would total about $300 millions by the end of the year on a budget of $3.7 billions. And of course it is a surplus only on the books, most of the money supposedly saved having been spent.

If the government achieves a book-keeping surplus of $300 millions this year and increases its next year's budget by $600 millions it follows that there will not be another substantial surplus and there could be a very large deficit. That is, unless the nation's total production grows greatly in the next twelve months and provides a corresponding growth in revenues from present tax rates.

On the whole it would seem that the government will be lucky to balance the next budget even if it refuses to make more than minor taxation adjustments. The Conservative party's only effective cry against the government lately has been "over-taxation." It becomes meaningless in the light of the new figures. We may presently look back with longing eyes on Mr. Abbott's misrepresentation of the surplus. Assuredly with our present scale of spending we are not being over-taxed.

The new estimates are indeed staggering by any but wartime standards. We spent roughly a quarter more than this at the peak of the war but we did not pay for it in cash. We had to carry half our war budgets by borrowing and some of the borrowing, through the banks, actually was a creation of new money out of thin air—crude monetary inflation.

Today we can carry a budget which probably will be close to four and a half billions without borrowing, out of actual revenue. We can do it because the nation has grown greatly since the war.

Few Canadians, outside the C.C.F., will grudge the armed service their $2.1 billions (about four times our total prewar budget) but it is disturbing to see that non-defense spending shows no offsetting reductions. Taking into account the vastly increased budgets of the provinces and the municipalities, it is evident that in the next year—apart altogether from defense—government as a whole will spend far more than ever. Such spending can only be carried on the velocity of an unprecedented inflationary boom which did not originate in Canada and may be ended by world forces outside our control. If that happens the present scale of spending could become insupportable and its downward readjustment extremely painful.

Observing Mr. Abbott's figures and those of the junior governments, most thoughtful Canadians will agree that the nation has bitten off for the present all it can chew. We should digest our present gigantic commitments before we take on new ones.

CRITICISM FROM CERTAIN sources over British Columbia's relaxation of the meat embargo was as inevitable as criticism voiced in other quarters over its original enforcement. The majority of citizens, however, will be satisfied that some quarantine regulations had to be made and some safeguards established against the introduction into the province of foot-and-mouth disease. They will be satisfied, also, to know that barriers—probably in themselves unconstitutional in respect to interprovincial trade—may now be lowered.

Primarily British Columbia acted to protect this part of Canada from infection. Had that protection by embargo continued indefinitely it would have distorted the market and critically injured the industry and the consumer.

As it stands, Canada has already lost a vital source of American dollars because the lucrative meat trade with the United States is shut off. The fence raised against Canadian supplies at the international border throws them back onto the domestic market in a volume which may be expected to affect prices drastically. It should, nevertheless, be possible to sell the supplies in this country and, by the laws of supply and demand, at a price much more favorable to the consumer.

Put Meaning in the Plebiscite

THE UNOFFICIAL SUGGESTION OF the attorney-general regarding the wording of the forthcoming plebiscite on liquor sales leaves much to be desired.

Mr. Wismer indicates that the phraseology might be along the lines of: "Are you in favor of sale of liquor and wines by the glass in licensed establishments?"

In view of the complicated nature of the problem this would leave too much unsaid. A voter confronted by such a ballot could record dissatisfaction with the present system, but little else. The terms are too general, the statement too broad for an accurate representation of the public's feelings on this controversial matter.

Would this not be a good opportunity for the employment of a form of preferential ballot similar to that to be used for the election of legislative members?

The ballot could contain three questions, to be marked by the voter in the order of his preference. These might be in some such form as the following:

Are you in favor of the sale of wine and beer with meals in approved eating places?

Are you in favor of the sale of liquors and wines by the glass in licensed premises without food?

Do you prefer to retain the present system?

Such a choice would more clearly define public opinion, give closer direction to the government, and clarify a situation that cannot be properly met by a straight "yes" or "no" to a single question.

Many persons in the province would prefer a compromise on the question of alcoholic beverages, and they should have an opportunity to express their opinion. The plebiscite wording suggested by the attorney-general gives only two extremes from which to choose, and the government would thus gain no real sense of what the public actually wants.

The whole purpose of the vote is to obtain clarification. Let us not use a ballot that would only add to the confusion.

Canada's Great Servants

THE LATEST SHIFTS IN THE UPPER echelon of the external affairs department will be accomplished without a ripple because Canada enjoys the services of some of the ablest diplomats in the world. And these men are interchangeable between one capital or one job and another.

Thus when the brilliant Arnold Heeney goes as our representative to N.A.T.O. he is replaced as under-secretary of state for external affairs by Dana Wilgress, now high commissioner to Britain and whom Norman Robertson follows to London. Mr. Robertson's present post as clerk of the Privy Council is to be filled by John Pickersgill, the prime minister's able assistant and one of the most respected servants of the state.

Any one of these men could fill any diplomatic post anywhere. They have no superiors in experience or ability in any other country. But perhaps the great thing about the external affairs department is that it operates as a team. Its members are all friends who have come up from the bottom rung of the ladder to the top together.

Work, not protocol, is the interest of this unique Canadian organization. From Mr. Pearson downwards the Canadian diplomat is nothing like the striped-pants caricature of the movies but a bustling, friendly expert who has made the good name of Canada known and esteemed in every capital of the free world. In times like these Canada is fortunate in having its foreign affairs in such hands as these.

... And Spring Begins

YOU NEVER CAN BE SURE HOW or when it will arrive: There are many fine days; bright, sparkling days; soft, cloudy days; clear or pearly dull days, and they all have their charm. But sooner or later The One arrives.

It's like moving through a ballroom full of beautiful women. You greet them, admire them, pass them in turn.

Then suddenly the others are swept into oblivion—The One is there.

So it is with the days. One brings some extra warmth of sun, some special beauty of white, fleecy cloud, some particular thrill of softness in the passing breeze. Suddenly you know this is the day. The One is here. And spring begins.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

DO YOU remember the good old days when we got our scribbles free at school? These must have been magic scribbles. Instead of sending our parents' taxes up, they seemed to keep them down. On the back of each scribbler was a flock of tables of weights and measures. These tables never did me any good. They got me all mixed up. It was about thirty years after I left Entrance Class that I discovered a rod, a pole, and a perch are all the same thing. The heck with them. They used to confuse me between fishing and land measurement.

I STILL don't know what an acre is, ten minutes after looking it up. I look it up several times a year. I know it is supposed to be the area of a yoke of oxen could plough in one day, but surely that would make an acre of soft earth bigger than an acre of stiff clay, which is absurd. I do remember, though, that an acre is 40-somethings long by 4-somethings wide. This seems a mighty silly shape for an acre. . . . If it ran at right angles to the street, your neighbors would be right on top of you. If it ran parallel to the street, your front door would scratch the paint off your back door, unless they both opened outwards.

WELL, on the front of these free old scribbles there was always a coat of arms of British Columbia. I liked to think, in those days, it was a picture of a barred grate exploding. Grates explode often than you might imagine. I believe I have told you, a year or two ago, about the time my brother was guest of a Turkish chief who gave him some undrinkable plum brandy. While the chief was out of the room, my brother politely poured the drink into the fire, not seeing in advance that it would go off with a frightful pop, giving the Turks a low opinion of Canadians thereafter. The explosion, he said, was quite as bad as anything that happens when a man absent-mindedly lights a cigarette after drinking Australian whisky.

BUT I don't think of an exploding grate now, when I look at our heraldic device, with its golden sunburst across the bars. Not even when I think of the exploded hearth of B.C.'s Coalition. You know, some blokes tried to explode that hearth with loganberry wine, but it didn't work. The bloke came a little later. No, what I think of now is half a plum pudding cheerily ably, against barred strata of drifting cigar smoke, thus indicating B.C.'s prosperity.

AS FOR our motto, "Splendor sine occasu," I didn't know this meant "Splendor which never fails." I always say my teacher told me, but I got into the bad habit of tuning her out. I was told what it meant by an obliging Japanese schoolmate. He was fascinated by the heraldry, incidentally. He thought the bars were the stripes of the Stars and Stripes, while the rising sun was that of Japan. Nor did he think this modest of us in B.C., but merely practical. The States and Nippon would exploit us between them, to our perpetual betterment and satisfaction. As for the motto, he scoffed at me for saying, "I couldn't make it out. It was easy, he said. It meant 'Signs of splendor occasionally.'"

LATIN MADE EASY I USED to be fairly good at figuring out Latin mottoes in this intuitive way. My Japanese friend needn't have jeered. It was I who doped out the Hudson's Bay Company's "Pro pelle cutem." I'm still not quite sure what that really means, except that it has something to do with fur skins or both. But there was a time when I knew darned well it meant "Propellers cut 'em." . . . In other words, "Keep clear of propellers," a warning that used to be painted at the stern on the Empresses of Asia, Russia, etc. I never went to see if the H.B. Co. ship Lady Kindersley had "Pro pelle cutem" written on her stern, but I had no doubt she must have. No possible doubt whatever. Youth is very good at being quite certain.

CHEESE IT WAS given a very pleasant Stilton cheese for Christmas, and dug into it greedily for some weeks. But now the last fragments have dried out sadly. They seemed pretty useless until last night, when I pounded the stiffness out of their joints and then mashed them up with French mustard, horseradish, and black pepper. I am bitterly against that insipid putty known as process cheese. But my own process cheese is not bad at all, at all. No doubt I shall continue to improve it with various unlikely ingredients, until the Brock Cold-process Welsh Rabbit is honored by Druids and rabbits the world over. If people keep on giving me Stiltons, I mean.

POLKA MY EYE USELESS but interesting information: the polka is neither a folk dance nor Polish. It was invented by a single person, not by folk, about 120 years ago. And she was a Czech farm girl, not a Pole. Name on request.

Not Wanted Here

Windsor Star

It is quite true many Europeans have reasons for hating one another, such as Poles disliking Germans, and Russians; Lithuanians and Czechs disliking Poles; Russians and Germans hating each other, and the French hating Germans. These dislikes and hatreds arise out of ancient enmities and causes. But, in turn, they have been the cause of many of Europe's woes.

If some immigrants are going to fight amongst themselves because of hatreds which existed in Europe, we don't want them here. Any who give evidence of not being willing to live peacefully in Canada, among people of many racial extractions, should be deported and let stew in the ancient enmities which prevail in Europe.

A Lot Depends on Her

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

THE OTHER DAY Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.), one of our guests, came out to the shed where my family and I are living, and said: "I've had another letter from my brother Percy."

"Has he gone back to Baluchistan?" I asked hopefully, because the last we had heard of Percy he was in Saint John, N.B., without a penny and freezing to death in a pair of khaki shorts and a pongee shirt.

"Well, no," said the colonel. "You see, I couldn't very well leave him stranded in Saint John, New Brunswick, so I went to my wife, Anastasia, and asked for a year's advance on my allowance so I could send Percy the money to get here."

I was astounded that Anastasia would give the colonel any sizeable amount of cash, and I told him so.

"She's got me mortgaged to the hilt," he said sadly. "And she's charging me six per cent. You can see, boy, that I can't move anywhere. And there's poor Percy."

I was touched by the colonel's brotherly devotion, but a little annoyed that he was thinking of Percy and not of himself. "After all," I said, "Percy is okay. He has the money. By the way, when does he get here?"

"That's just it," said the colonel. "He hasn't got past Montreal. And he's broke again."

Then he showed me the letter. Dear Brother (it began), I was very happy to receive the money sent to the bank in Saint John, New Brunswick, he said sadly. "And she's charging me six per cent. You can see, boy, that I can't move anywhere. And there's poor Percy."

Freedom of Speech

(Mr. Justice Rand in the University of Toronto Law Journal)

Let me for a moment relate that manifestation to freedom of speech. Fear of speech arises, among other things, from illiteracy in ideas; ideas have not been made familiar and we shrink as in terror from the unknown. Western people, particularly those in the United States, have become fanatically apprehensive of their safety, of the subjugation of the West by Mongolian hordes.

There may be every justification for that apprehension; but it has led them into an extravagance of suspicion and accusation toward their own such as has not often been witnessed in a state of free government.

The lowest infamies of the informer have been challenged by the outburst on the floors of legislative chambers, and the reflex has been a public paroxysm of hysteria.

True freedom of speech has become a mockery; a man's social and economic life may be destroyed by the chit-chat of a cocktail party . . .

As Our Readers See It

MR. DRINKIE

Bruce Hutchison's article in March 11 Times made me think that Mr. Drinkie may be right.

When Mr. Bennett gets busy with British Columbia it may be easier for him to consign to limbo various interpretations, by the zealous of Major Douglas' theories, than it will be easy for, say, Mr. Anscomb to shed his ambitions of monetary glory. Mr. Wismer's bedtime story in Maclean's magazine, or Mr. Winch his noble spires in the clouds of sunset.

QUESTIONS

The Times carried a report of the crisis in the S.P.C.A. occasioned by the resignation of the newly-elected president. This report contains a statement by Mr. P. Green, vice-president, in which he says, "there is a group in the organization which has been a nuisance to us for years."

Does he refer to certain members of the committee which is elected annually by the members in open meeting? Who does Mr. Green include in the term "us"? It implies the existence of an inflexible hierarchy with proprietary interest in the society. Who comprises the "nuisance group"? What exactly is the nuisance of which he complains? Is it by any chance the right of free speech or criticism?

The S.P.C.A. is a semi-public body maintained by funds collected from the public. The supporters of the society have a right to, and will certainly insist on, answers to these questions.

J. BARTON.

Cobble Hill, B.C.

PARK DESTRUCTION

While deploring the destruction caused by vandals in Beacon Hill Park, I contend that the constant felling of sound trees in the park by the Parks Superintendent is a much worse offense.

A concrete seat base can be replaced for a matter of dollars but to replace trees such as have been destroyed in the park in recent times will take many generations if, indeed, they can ever be replaced.

Has the City Council no jurisdiction over the decisions of the Parks Superintendent, or is he a law unto himself, flouting public opinion, destroying the nesting places of birds, and undoing the work of the Chamber of Commerce which receives a grant from the city to advertise the beauties of Victoria of which, surely, Beacon Hill Park is one of the most outstanding?

What are the "Jay-Cees" and the numerous service clubs of the city thinking of that they, too, allow this state of affairs to continue without audible protest?

(Mrs.) HILDA WALKER.

837 Burdette Ave.

HOSPITAL COSTS

If a smaller portion of the hospital tax (it is never, and never was "insurance" save in value) was expended on salaries, office administration in Victoria, and drugs and a larger portion on the actual hospitals and their equipment would not it be for the benefit of all patients?

What is the cost of many, if not all, drugs in actuality?

As the actual worth and cost of drugs is unknown to anyone save a chemist or doctor, how easily and delightfully the general public are deceived. Yet I have heard "drugs" are one of the greatest costs in a hospital.

As to "co-insurance" it's only an added "tax" for the unfortunate who have to go into hospital—as the "premiums" are for all the lucky people who stay out of them and never benefit.

The cost of offices, and officials, to administer this tax could also surely be cut in half—only what about jobs for "political pets"? What indeed?

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where a man has conquered some more of space. He proved that life can exist 40 miles above the earth's surface. With rockets and parachutes and radar and photographs he's shown that 40 miles presents no obstacles. So now he's all set to go farther. Sooner or later he'll be right out in space, free of the earth's gravity, on his own. Then he'll really be going places. Did I say 'he'? I meant, of course, his friends the lower animals. Because it isn't man himself that's gone up 40 miles. That's just his way of putting it. What really happened is that he shot some mice up that high in rockets. So it's really the mouse, not man, who's conquered the heavens. Man was just a helper who stayed on the ground and looked after the mechanical arrangements. And when outer space is finally entered, you can bet it'll be a mouse or a monkey or a guinea pig who sets the pace and reaches the goal first. Aided, of course, by his old pal, man, the groundling, Mezzanine!"

"It's pretty unfair," said the Elevator Man, "the way we take credit for so much that other forms of life really have done. Take our medical researchers. They're doing a fine job. But a lot of it depends on the animals they have to aid them, the cats and dogs and other creatures that provide a field for study of living matter's reaction to disease. Lots of people don't like the idea, others do. I suppose a lot of it depends on whether you've ever had a youngster saved from death by vaccine, seen a relative or close friend rally from death's door because of techniques or discoveries the animals have helped man to perfect. I guess the animals' big mistake was in not announcing long ago that they have souls. That would gain them immunity, but at a price. Going down!"

"Although," said the Elevator Man, "man isn't averse to giving himself the same, or even worse treatment. We're a great field of experiment for each other. Even the young. Remember that story of the teacher? She returned to the room to find her usually noisy class silent and motionless. 'Whatever's the matter?' she asked in astonishment. 'Well,' said one pupil, 'You told us once that if you came back and found us quiet, you'd drop dead.'"

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

By R. T. WESTER

The Shepherd

JAIRUS' DAUGHTER

"For the maid is not dead, but sleepeth." Matt. 9:24

Your daughter, Jairus, is not dead. . . . She's but asleep. The Master said. . . . Stretched forth His hand and she arose. . . . And by this act He clearly shows. . . . That in His hand is healing touch. . . . And by faith we can do as much. . . . For He the way of power taught. . . . And showed how miracles are wrought. . . . To this good day, we can receive. . . . His power, too, if we believe.

Woodlot Farms Said Few

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney, in reply to a question by O.C.F. Leader Harold Winch, in the Legislature Thursday, said he is a "little disappointed" in the reaction of B.C. farmers to the woodlot system within the forest management plan.

This plan allows a farmer to farm in the summer and during his slack winter season carry out small-scale logging on property near his home. It is widely used in Sweden.

Kenney said only a few farmers have taken advantage of the plan, but he expected a better response soon. The difference between B.C.'s and Sweden's plan, Kenney said, is that in Sweden the "woodlot carries the farm; but here the situation is the opposite."

Bogy 'Upset' Choice for Oscar—Viv Best Gal

HOLLYWOOD, March 21 (CP)—Humphrey Bogart and Vivien Leigh Thursday night won the top acting Oscars in Hollywood's annual academy award festival which produced its biggest surprise in years in the choice of "An American in Paris" as the best picture.

Bogart is an obvious sentimental selection for the best-actor award as the gin-loving skipper in "The African Queen."

Miss Leigh was a pre-award favorite for the best-actress Oscar for her portrayal of a faded beauty in "Streetcar Named Desire."

But the selection of "An American in Paris" was completely unexpected. It was the first out-and-out musical ever to win the grand prize. And while it was a good musical, it was not classed with "Streetcar" and "A Place in the Sun."

The selections had a sentimental flavor and "Bogart best summed it up when he said: 'I've been around a long time. Maybe the people like me.'"

Karl Malden, the disillusioned lover in "Streetcar," won the award for the best supporting actor, and Kim Hunter, the wife in the same film, was on the prize for the best supporting actress. Both were favorites.

"American in Paris" won Oscars in several other categories: costume design, art direction, set decoration, cinematography (all these in color films), musical scoring, story-and-screenplay.

In addition to these, Gene Kelly, the picture's star, won an honorary award for his "brilliant achievements in art of choreography on film."

C.C.L. Group Plans Meeting On Candidates

VANCOUVER, March 21 (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor (C.C.L.), announced today it has called a meeting for March 31 here to discuss candidates for the coming provincial election.

Federation unions in Greater Vancouver were asked Thursday to send delegates to the conference. Aim of the session will be political action by the trade union movement "in a united manner."

This was authorized last month by the federation convention, which instructed the executive to call conferences of delegates "to discuss potential candidates and programs in line with C.C.F. policies."

The coming election will be fought mainly on labor issues, said George Home, B.C.F.L. secretary, who announced the date of the Vancouver meeting.

OTTAWA WILL APPEAL

B.C. Court Income Tax Ruling Questioned

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP)—The federal government will appeal against the use of income tax returns in a British Columbia court prosecution, Revenue Minister McCann said Wednesday in the Commons.

The returns were used by order of the court in a bookmaking conspiracy trial, over the objection of revenue department solicitors. The defendants were acquitted.

Replying to questions from John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre), the revenue minister said the British Columbia appellate division has granted the government leave to appeal the trial judge's ruling that returns must be produced on court order. The department, he said, "will make the appeal at the proper time." Basis of the appeal would be that returns are not admissible into court because of their confidential nature.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

It was learned today that the B.C. Game Commission is "very concerned" about the plans of a forest products firm to establish a log area in Sidney Island Lagoon, rendezvous of countless thousands of geese and ducks.

It is one of the major concentration points for Black Brant geese off the southern tip of the island. Sportsmen and officials fear the 40-acre boom area wanted may destroy it as a "safety valve" for the migrating brant herds that pass this way. Sooke Harbor is the other spot.

Sportsmen are not sure whether a boom area in these choice geese-feeding grounds will badly injure it as a settling point for the migrating fowl. They want the whole matter investigated by all government bodies concerned to clear up this point.

If present log storage plans on the presently proposed scale will not harm the area for fowl, sportsmen have the fear that this may only be the "thin edge of the wedge to make the sheltered lagoon a major booming area."

It is reported on good authority that the Game Commission is going to put up a strong fight to save the area for the geese. It is likely a stoppage will be ordered in granting of the log boom lease until the whole picture has been clarified.

Major Feeding Ground for Waterfowl

"Sidney Island and Sooke Harbor are unique in having eel grass beds and fine sands which become sufficiently exposed for utilization by waterfowl, principally Black Brant," said Charles J. Guiguet, provincial biologist.

Guiguet, who flew on heavy bomber missions over Germany in World War II and spent two years before the war and five years after studying game management at U.B.C., claims no other areas at the south end of V.I. are so favored as major feeding and landing units for the species in this area.

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, ardent local sportsman, was the first to bring this to the attention of the public. He believes the granting of the lease will destroy forever this resting spot for geese and ducks generally.

"There is a crying need in British Columbia for the setting aside of natural setting grounds for waterfowl," said Guiguet, "and if they haven't got a place for them to stop and rest it will destroy them." He believes it should be made a public shooting grounds.

No hunter or logman who has been in the island's south-east lagoon in March or April will deny it is a concentration point, the biologist continued. He noted the lagoon is used by thousands in their northward migration.

Immediate Action Recommended

"Let's not sit back and wait to see what happens. Let's put our oar in now and get things cleared up. It may be too late altogether unless we take action immediately," said Guiguet.

He points out that too often in the past the public have let things go "and wake up to find areas wrecked or barred to their outdoor enjoyments."

Guiguet today received a copy of a letter from Dr. Ian McTavish, U.B.C. zoology department, supporting the contention that the lagoon used as a log storage ground may destroy it for all time for waterfowl.

Dr. Cowan strongly recommends that action be taken immediately to get the details of the application by the logging firm from the Department of Lands "so we may proceed as may seem best."

"Fishing has been excellent here since Saturday morning," was the report today from the Goldstream end of Saanich Inlet. Boats going out for two or three hours have returned with nice catches, mainly on blue and white bucktails with no weight.

"The herring came in Saturday and there should be big salmon following them. However, with practically every one fishing on the surface with the bucks it is hard to judge whether the big 'uns are around yet," the report said.

One boathouse reported that Fred Curle and George Parker Wednesday caught a 15-lb. spring, 13 bluebacks. Fred Tull, Allen Nelson and J. N. McDonald were out Monday and again Wednesday and their score was: 24 the first day and their limit of 30 on the later day, on blue bucktails. Tiny Richards and J. Warburton took their limit of 20. H. Hett also scored a limit 10 on Sunday and again Tuesday. Boyd McMillan, from Calgary, and Fred Thew scored 12 blues and one jackspiral.

Other catches at Goldstream: B. Croft, 10 blues; Mrs. Freda Crumpton, 10 blues; R. Wallis and C. Menzies, 12 blues Saturday, 11 on Sunday; Jumbo Davies, 8 blues; G. Keithley and F. Garside, 9 blues; D. and S. Jenkins, 13 blues; C. R. James and C. M. Woodard, 17 blues; A. C. Anderson, 6 blues; Al Collins and Partner, 9 blues; C. Cameron, 8 blues, and F. Fendley, 6 blues "and there were many other nice catches."

Brentwood Bay boathouse operators reported things as rather "spotty," but that there are still a few good catches coming in. Stan Williams reports the best blueback fishing in years off Crofton. Trout fishing only gets a "fair" rating, judging from all reports of catches during the past week.

"The nothing but fly-fishing" trio of Rod Williams, Don Wilson and Dave Turnbull only bagged four trout in Shawigan last Sunday. They blamed this on the cold wind that sprang up during the day.

Jack Harris reports the "stone fly" now hatching in Cowichan River. The trout at this time like the Woodcock and yellow fly and the yellow haggard, he said.

City Rugby Teams Open Playoff Series Saturday

It's playoff time in the Victoria Rugby Union!

Barnard Cup play begins this Saturday with the league-winning Crusaders squaring off against Victoria College at upper Macdonald Park and Oak Bay Wanderers facing J.B.A.A. on the lower pitch.

Actually, Crusaders, who finished 10 points ahead of J.B.A.A., will be on the short end of the betting in Saturday's semi-finals.

Plagued with injuries most of the year, some of their top players have been sidelined, including Jack Gibbs, John Shipley, Ray Calton, Hugh Burnett and John Bigelow.

Of those five, Gibbs and Shipley are still out of commission.

NEW PLAYERS

Their semi-final opponents, Victoria College, are not in a much better position, using three comparatively new men.

They are Dave Francis, Art Cornish and Louis Knott. Francis and Cornish are second division imports, having played only one senior game previously, while Knott has been idle most of the season.

J.B.A.A. will be lacking three of their first-string players when they meet Wanderers in the second semifinal contest.

Missing will be Garry Pynn, Harry Turner and probably John Poole.

Bays will bring up two players from the second division, Pete Ash and Jim Kennett.

Starting time for both games is 2:30.

HARDLY ENOUGH TO PAY OVERHEAD

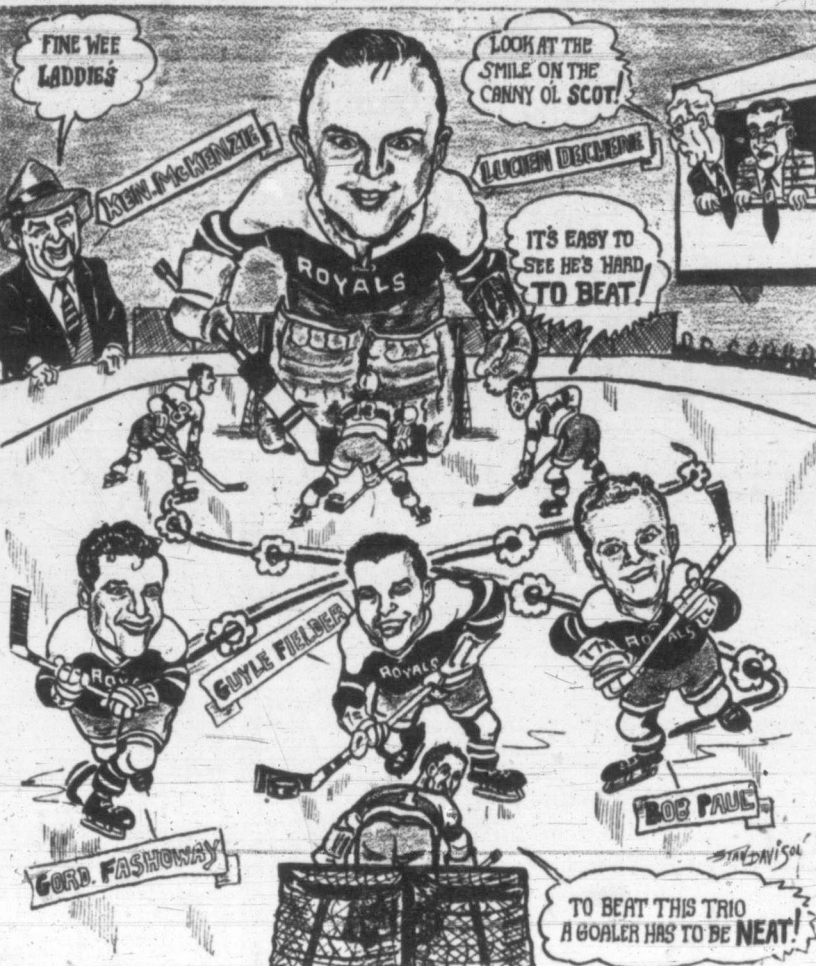

Money in Bowl Games? Bah!

By WIL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP). There may be evils in football bowl games as contended by a committee of college presidents asking their extinction, but one of these evils apparently isn't money.

The Associated Press took a peek today at the swag that came out of the four big shows of last Jan. 1 and discovered none of the colleges involved is getting overly fat on the returns.

For example, take Illinois, the Big Ten champion which slaughtered Stanford 40-7 before nearly 100,000 fans in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Cougars Close Out Home Schedule Against Royals

The regular home schedule of the Pacific Coast Hockey League comes to a close for Victoria Cougars tonight with the appearance of the New Westminster Royals at Memorial Arena at 8:30.

Quakers Trample Ironmen

By The Canadian Press

Seattle Ironmen are returning from their final Prairie tour with a two-out-of-three record after securing their objective but losing the final skirmish.

Saskatoon Quakers, a better team in the P.C.H.L. standings, and Thursday night, a better team on the ice, struck the final blow.

They spoiled Seattle's bid for an unblemished prairie tour by beating Ironmen 6-1.

Nevertheless, the swing allowed Ironmen to grab—and clinch—fourth place in the standings as they took wins over Calgary Stampeders and Edmonton Flyers before running across Quakers.

Chuck McCullough led Quakers with two goals and a single shot to Alex Kaleta, Neil Strain, Doug Bentley and Johnny Chad.

RICHARDSON GETS PAIR

Bill Richardson—who scored the winning goal when Ironmen met Flyers—scored twice for Ironmen while George Horne and Nick Tomluk got the others.

The game produced four major penalties and two 10-minute misconducts.

Red Wings Dominate N.H.L. All-Star Club

Place Four On BUP Dream Team

NEW YORK (BUP)—Four members of the Detroit Red Wings dominated the British United Press 1951-52 National Hockey League all-star team.

Goalie Terry Sawchuk, defenseman Leonard (Red) Kelly and right wing Gordie Howe of the dashing Detroit crew were the unanimous choices of 25 writers polled in the six N.H.L. cities. Ted Lindsay, another member of the Red Wings, gained the left wing berth in a close ballot battle with Toronto's Sid Smith.

Founding out the first team were defenseman Doug Harvey and centre Elmer Lach, both of the Montreal Canadiens.

Named to the second team along with Smith were right wing Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal, centre Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins, defenseman Hy Bailer of the New York Rangers and Jim Thomson of Toronto, and Goalie Harry Lumley of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Sawchuk, Kelly, Howe and Lindsay are not newcomers to the N.H.L. all-star teams, for all four were included on the British United Press number one squad last season.

TWO-YEAR STAR

Sawchuk is only in his second full season with the Red Wings, but he already has been hailed as one of the greatest netminders of all time. He won the Calder Trophy as the N.H.L.'s outstanding rookie last year and undoubtedly will add the Vezina Trophy as the league's top goalie to his collection this season.

Going into the final week of the season, the 22-year-old netminder from Winnipeg, boasted 12 shutouts and a goals-allowed average of 1.85.

Howe, Lindsay and Lach earned their all-star berths mainly through their recognized scoring ability. Howe, who is 24 years old and hails from Floral, Saskatchewan, is in the process of sewing up his second straight league scoring title, while Lindsay and Lach are battling it out for the runner-up spot.

Lindsay, who is in his eighth season with the Red Wings, polled 12 first place votes, two more than Smith. The Red Wings' firebrand is 26 years old and a native of Kirkland Lake, Ontario.

HAB VETERAN

Lach is the "graybeard" of the all-star squad. The 34-year-old centre from Nokomis, Sask., has been with the Canadiens since 1940, and was regarded as "over-the-hill" before the start of the season. However, he took up the slack when Richard was lost to the team midway in the season and served as an able pivot for his rookie linemates, Dickie Moore and Dick Gamble.

Kelly and Harvey are able defensemen who are just as proficient on the attack as in protecting their own zone. Kelly, 24, is a native of Simcoe, Ont., and is in his fifth season with the Red Wings. Harvey, 27, is a Montreal product and also is a five-year man.

FISHING REPORTS

Island trout fishing reports from game wardens at this time: Shawanigan Lake, fair for yellow-bellied fly and spinner, and worm; fly fishing best.

Kerr Lake, fair for fly and troll. Goldstream, fair for steelhead. Trout fishing picking up at Big and Little Thetis' Elk and Prospect Lakes.

Cusheon Lake, Salt Spring Island, is offering good sport with trout. Rogers Lake (Dougan) at Cobble Hill is poor at present for trout fishing. Cowichan River is rated as poor. In the Nanaimo area, Brennan and Long Lakes are producing some good catches. Other lakes close to the highway are said to be only "fair."

Colquitz Creek is attracting many worm anglers these days. Trout up to 16 inches or better are being taken. In the Alberni area the Soan River is offering fair fishing for steelhead on the fly. Stamp River has been good for steelhead and trout.

There were no reports this week from the Courtenay area.

The Book by my side: the Bible

VICS DROP ICE SERIES; KERRIES IN B.C. FINAL

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., March 21 (CP)—Kerrisdale Kerries nipped Victoria All-Stars 7-6 here Thursday night to win the Pacific Coast junior hockey title for the second straight year.

Victoria showed a complete reversal of form from its 12-3 lacing of Wednesday night, and actually held a 6-3 lead midway through the third period.

However, four goals in two minutes and 19 seconds shot Kerries into the lead for keeps. They won the total-goals final 19-9.

Ken Sutherland sparked Kerries in that late rush, netting three goals and one assist. Stan Fowler also registered the hat-trick for Victoria.

Kerries—18 men strong—will head for Trail either Monday or Tuesday to meet that city's Smoke Eaters for the B.C. championship in a best-of-five series.

Olympic Track Stars In Montreal Preview

MONTREAL, March 21 (CP)—Olympic prospects from three countries will have a chance to show their stuff tonight at the Canadian Legion's sixth annual indoor track and field meet for eastern Canada championships.

Canada's top aspirants for a place in the 1,500 and 5,000-metre Olympic races at Helsinki, Finland, next summer will compete tonight in the two-mile race and the Legion Mile.

Don Scott McEwen, the Ottawa runner who captains the University of Michigan's track team, is favored in the two-mile. He may better his own Canadian indoor record of 9:08.2, set at last year's Legion meet.

McEwen will have 14 competitors. They include his Michigan teammate, George Lynch of Toronto, considered the fourth-best two-miler in the United States, Valdo Lillakas of Montreal, the Canadian six-mile champion, and Rich Ferguson of Toronto.

The man to beat in the Legion Mile appears to be John Ross of Oakville, Ont., also a Michigan track performer. Ross is one of the few Canadians who have bettered 4:10 in a recorded mile, and in tonight's gallop at the Montreal Forum he has a chance to beat the Canadian indoor record of 4:10.6 set by Gil Doidge, American star.

Second game of the series is scheduled Saturday. Game time tonight is 8:30 with Sooke and Brentwood midgets meeting in the first game of the Ernie Stock Trophy series at 7:30.

Vic High in Cross-Country Meet at U.B.C.

And there they go! Or at least they will go this Saturday when Vic High's cross-country team under coach Gordon Hartley meets U.B.C. as a half-time feature of the Thunderbird-California rugby game.

Ten boys from Vic High will enter the gruelling three-mile race which starts and finishes at U.B.C. stadium. They are: Pete Kirchner, Dick Wood, Bill Oldham, Harold Robinson, Leon Goodall, Bob Bullivant, Floyd Bain, Don Thompson and Jack Lawrence.

"We are pinning our hopes on Pete Kirchner," Hartley said but the way the team is running now any member could pull a surprise over there."

For the Vic High runners this is only the beginning of three important races which will take place in the near future.

Friday, April 4, the V.H.S. squad will meet Navy at Vic High in the annual five-mile distance championship which starts and finishes at the V.H.S. stadium. Also competing will be a team from Mt. View High.

Top man in the meet will receive the coveted trophy donated by the Canadian Legion. Kirchner is defending champion.

Good Friday morn will find more hot feet than hot cross buns—abounding in the city, at least as far as the V.H.S. runners entering the annual Canadian Legion 10-mile run are concerned.

Fifteen runners including coach Hartley will represent the Fernwood school at the distance meet. This is the largest field ever entered by Vic High.

FIGHT RESULTS

NEW YORK (Herald Tribune)—Lou Boney (Tape, 144 lbs., New York) defeated Basil Marie (137½, Philadelphia) (6).

PORTLAND, Me.—Jimmy Richmond (137, Baltimore, Md.) outpointed Dick Lundy (137, Portland) (6).

He will also have the unenviable job of trying to beat out George Rhoden and Herb McKenley of Jamaica and Mal Whitfield, the U.S. Army Air Force track star from Columbus, Ohio.

Rhoden holds the 400-metre world championship and McKenley the 440-yard world title. Whitfield won the Olympic 800-metre race in 1948 at London and is co-holder of the world's 880-yard record.

Soccer Clinic Moves Outdoors

The Dominion Football Association sponsored soccer classes move outdoors Saturday with upwards of 200 youngsters expected to attend the opening session at Macdonald Park at 10.

Practical demonstrations of lessons taught in the recent indoor clinics will be conducted by instructors Ed Ball and George Kulak.

Stamp Prexy Spikes Rumors

CALGARY, March 21 (CP)—Cec Chesher, president of Calgary Stampede of the Western Interprovincial Union, today denied that Johnny Bright, star Drake University half-back signed by Stampede, was being paid $14,000 or "anywhere near it."

Mr. Chesher added that it was not the team's policy to release the amount of any player's salary, "but in view of the reports which have been circulated and the unflattering comment 'we feel it quite in order to state that Bright's salary is not anywhere near the $14,000 mentioned.'"

"We feel the amount was suggested by one of our competitive clubs which was trying to cover up for its failure to land Bright." (Previous reports from Edmonton had indicated Bright would be lining up with Eskimos this year.)

He also confirmed a report that Royal Copeland was anxious to return to Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Union.

He added that Copeland wishes to return east mainly for family reasons and "we will do nothing to hold him up. All we ask is that we can do a suitable trade with Argonauts and we expect to conclude the deal in the near future."

LOPEZ MITE PEEVED AS FELLER TAKES IT EASY

LOS ANGELES, March 21 (AP)—Cleveland Indians manager Al Lopez is slightly ruffled over Bob Feller's decision to start out the season throwing the ball "nice and gentle."

Lopez said that Feller will start against the Chicago Cubs here Sunday, but: "If he doesn't exert himself more than he did Wednesday, he won't pitch more than an inning or so."

Lopez' mild peeve was over Feller's allowing Pittsburgh Pirates to score three runs in one inning Wednesday night, not because of the runs but because he isn't throwing the ball hard.

But Feller says: "This is the way I worked into shape before the war. Take it nice and easy. Don't throw hard until the weather gets warm."

Ash Sets Spark To Eyres Tinder

By GORDON FORBES

A fire which has been smouldering for three years broke into full flame on the floor of the Legislature Thursday night.

Jointly fanning the blaze were Arthur Ash (Govt., Saanich) and L. H. Eyres (P.C., Chilliwack), former trade and industry minister in the Coalition government.

Although feeling has run high between the two for three years, it was subdued because they were both on government benches. Thursday night, they went at each other like a couple of stray cats.

The incident showed the restraint which must have been practised for years by many Liberals and Conservatives when they were perhaps unwilling partners in Coalition.

The debate, the scrappiest of the session, started during consideration of departmental estimates when Ash told the House there should be a thorough investigation of the trade and industry department. That is Eyres' old department, run by Health Minister A. D. Turnbull since the Coalition break-up.

"I hope the next government will consider an investigation into this department with a view to making a complete overhaul," said Ash. "It's high time we gave close scrutiny to this department. Traveling expenses are estimated at $20,000."

This was Eyres' cue. He jumped to his feet, and said he was "amazed" at Ash's statements.

"I sat as minister of trade and industry for three years and listened to the member from Saanich. I ask him to put on another record. He's never been in that department to see what goes on," said Eyres.

Ash

Eyres

Ash tried to interject, and Eyres told him to "sit down and let me say something now."

"I've been in the department. Just because I didn't go to the minister's office, deputy, doesn't mean I've never been there," said Ash.

Deputy Speaker Charles Morrow was shouting "order, order" by this time.

"SIT DOWN"

Ash tried to interject, and Eyres told him to "sit down and let me say something now."

"I've been in the department. Just because I didn't go to the minister's office, deputy, doesn't mean I've never been there," said Ash.

Deputy Speaker Charles Morrow was shouting "order, order" by this time.

When you are tormented by fretful nights, never comfortable, and you feel over-tired in the daytime—your kidneys may be to blame. For healthy kidneys should do 2/3 of their work in the daytime. If they get out of order and fail, extra strain is placed upon them and they must work overtime at night. That is the time to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills help relieve this cause of night discomfort and disturbed rest. Help you enjoy restful sleep and awake refreshed.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

Then Eyres carried on: "The member from Saanich is like a puppy—he hangs on to something like this and he won't let go. I've waited three years to say this. You've been asleep for the last few years, otherwise you could have seen the development in this country."

"He's electioneering and he doesn't know what the department has done. Oh, I could go on, but my temper is in such a state I'd better not."

DEFENDS STAFF

Eyres defended his former staff and added that $70,000 to publicize B.C. is "just peanuts" compared to what some places spend. He said resources are of no value unless they are developed.

The deputy speaker called out: "Shall we vote No. 275 pass?"

"I've had by $2.75 worth. I'll sit down now," replied Eyres.

Ash countered by saying Eyres had "simply got carried away." He said he would speak out against anything he felt wasn't right.

"I don't think we are getting value for our money from all this advertising the department does," said Ash. "But I'm a voice crying in the wilderness."

Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb wondered if Ash criticized the department because it had been run by a Conservative minister. "No, no," he concluded, "seem to think they know everything."

Cancer Problem 'Solvable' Says Bay Area Doctor

The cancer problem is "solvable," Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, San Francisco, told directors and delegates at the 10th annual conference of the Canadian Cancer Society's B.C. division in Vancouver.

"We know enough now to indicate that this is no pious hope," he said. "It may not happen in five or 10 years, but it will occur."

"Cancer research is at the end of the beginning," he said.

Hubert A. Wallace, provincial campaign chairman, said the 1952 Conquer Cancer campaign objective of $250,000 will benefit the society's educational, research and welfare programs with $150,000. The remainder is needed by the B.C. Cancer Foundation to complete its Vancouver clinic now under construction.

Victoria delegates were Col. J. Nelson Gibson and Maj. W. C. Roberts.

Ex-Servicemen's Fitness In Defense Jobs Doubted

Availability of having ex-service personnel running British Columbia's civil defense organization was questioned in the Legislature Thursday by Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East).

The matter came up during consideration of Provincial Secretary W. T. Strath's departmental estimates.

"For some time I've wondered about the suitability of ex-servicemen for handling civilians," said Turner.

Strath replied that the ex-servicemen actually are only intended to organize the province's civil defense program. They are all appointed on a temporary basis, he said. Some time in the future, Strath added, the organization probably will be turned over to civilians with only a skeleton administrative staff kept by the province.

Turner questioned whether an organization set up by former military personnel would get the best out of civilians.

REPORTERS GO BEHIND BARS

EDMONTON, March 20 (CP).—Several months behind bars in dungeon-like cells are in store for the short-hand reporting staff of the Edmonton court house.

Due to a shortage of room in the court house the reporters are being shunted temporarily to the basement cells, once occupied by prisoners during trial adjournments.

The reporters may gain some comfort from a philosophical prisoner's cell-wall scrawling. It reads: "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage."

Discrimination Against Negro Upsets High School

PORTLAND, Me., March 21 (AP)—Portland high school officials, incensed that Beverly Dodge can't go to Washington with her senior classmates because she's a negro, said Thursday they are considering cancelling their traditional trip to the capitol.

"There are plenty of other places the students could visit," said principal Howard C. Reiche. "We could take a trip to an industrial area like Detroit. We could visit Montreal or Quebec. We could take a trip to points in the world."

historic interest in Massachusetts, such as Plymouth Rock," Reiche added.

Miss Adelaide Lehan, a teacher arranging the April 20 trip, said a railroad agent advised her Beverly couldn't stay with the other students at any Washington hotel.

Governor Frederick G. Payne of Maine said Thursday night "it is most unfortunate that we should discriminate against people when we're trying to show leadership to peoples elsewhere in the world."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I lost my true love at Cadboro Bay,
So I guess I'd best be sad for a day.

I have a bone to pick with the female department of this newspaper.

The bone I have in mind will be sautéed in melted mustard, garnished with cheese-stuffed avocados, and served surrounded with bite-sized sandwiches of chopped dates, cottage cheese, and asparagus-in-mayonnaise.

The female department recently perpetrated a monstrosity called "The Economy Cookbook," which was distributed free of charge to readers of The Times.

I have no quarrel with Economy in cooking, nor with a free cookbook for our faithful readers. But once again, in this cookbook, I note the dread influence of F.O.O.

F.O.O. is the product of diabolical female minds, and is guaranteed to produce madness in males who like honest food. F.O.O. involves gummy sauces, unessential sweetenings, and weird mixtures of fish, flesh, fruit, fripperies and maraschino cherries.

F.O.O. is found at all afternoon teas, most female-controlled luncheons, and all too often at otherwise sane cocktail parties. And I regret to report that the Economy Cookbook is loaded with F.O.O.

Just one example out of many: this infamous book has the temerity to espouse the cause of an alleged salad containing lemon gelatin, pineapple juice, red and green peppers, crushed pineapple, cottage cheese, salt, cayenne pepper, lettuce and mayonnaise.

This is F.O.O. at its most malevolent.

One of the horrible aspects of F.O.O. is the time and effort it demands from its devotees. Bemused housewives spend hours chopping, bashing, scraping, mixing, and spreading things to make F.O.O.—time which would be much better employed in the home baking of rich, crusty bread, upon the still-warm slices of which a small dab of honey may be placed.

Men, beware of F.O.O. It is in our midst again. Watch for it. Report outstanding cases to Between Times, and we shall expose them to the scorn of all right-thinking admirers of good, plain, honest, edible food.

FAIR WARNING: I am currently owned by four dogs, including a mama dog, a daughter dog and two brother dogs, the latter three being three months' old.

This warning is published so that non-dog-admirers will stay well clear of Between Times on dog days, of which there are apt to be a few.

In fact, it is well known that all perpetrators of daily columns either (a) own dogs or (b) hate dogs, so they will have something to write about when they have nothing to write about.

Anyway, I have to report that one of the young brother dogs, name of Dempsey, is very indignant with my favorite wife, because she refers to the alleged rhymes which appear here as "doggerel."

Dempsey tells me this is an insult to all right-thinking dogs, and he is starting a movement to have all such efforts labelled, not doggerel, but mongerell.

His request was denied by the magistrate.

Louis Orrico and his "friends" ... 50,000 multi-colored carnations

HIS FLOWERS DECK ALL CANADA

Carnation King Once Shoe-Black

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Farm Reporter

Boxes upon boxes were packed in the large T.C.A. aircraft at Patricia Bay. The shipping slips attached read: "Montreal, carnations;" "Toronto, carnations;" "Edmonton, carnations;" ... In less than 24 hours the hundreds of flowers were destined to be on sale across the country.

If, perchance, you had asked the shipping clerk where the carnations came from, he would have replied: "Louis Orrico. Don't you know Louis on Shelbourne Street?"

Perhaps you have never met Louis. He is a 45-year-old, Italian-born greenhouse operator, better known by many as British Columbia's "Carnation King."

He deserves the title. Annually, hundreds of thousands of the delicately-hued blooms are flown from his greenhouses to all parts of the country.

He has 28,000 square feet of carnations under glass. In his up-to-date oil-heated greenhouse 50,000 plants are continually growing or blooming for the market.

It is quite an achievement, especially if you consider that Louis didn't have more than 60 cents in his pockets when he started the business. Today he owns greenhouses worth over $50,000.

Louis came to Canada in 1925 and like most immigrants had to start the hard way. He worked at odd jobs and even did shoe shining. But Louis knew he was made for something better.

Finally, in 1930, he made a start in carnations which were soon to become famous across Canada.

The flowers keep Louis and his five employees busy for most of the year.

"When the slack season comes along, you don't see me for dust," he says. "I seldom get a chance to go into town during the busy season."

He is fond of his employees. Some of them have been with him for 11 years. His cheerful disposition makes him an ideal employer.

Louis believes, like Will Shakespeare, that "The fairest flowers of the season are our carnations." Perhaps this, more than any factor, has contributed towards Louis' success as a carnation grower.

"This is the most beautiful flower," he will tell you enthusiastically. He is not giving you any sales talk when he tells you this. He believes it, and the flowers seem to respond to his sincere attachment.

Liquor Probe Favored If Plebiscite Passes

If the liquor plebiscite in the coming general election is approved, Attorney General Gordon Wismer would favor appointment of a "representative committee" to investigate possible methods of distribution in British Columbia.

Queried today during an interview on this important phase of the liquor question, Wismer said:

"The matter, of course, would be up to the incoming Legislature, but my own personal view is that a representative committee should be appointed if the plebiscite carries. It would start at once to investigate the various methods of dealing with this problem of distribution methods."

Wismer thought the committee should investigate methods of liquor distribution in other provinces and the United States so the various plans can be given full consideration by the government before the next session.

"I've never had the slightest objection to a committee of inquiry or a royal commission looking into the situation, but the view of most members of the Legislature is that nothing could be gained from such action before the plebiscite has been voted on," said the Attorney General.

He felt the time to investigate the system of distribution is after the decision of the voters is known.

Then is the time to make an investigation into distribution methods, so a good sensible approach can be decided," said Wismer.

He expressed the hope that citizens of B.C. will "get out in numbers and give a decisive answer on this very important issue."

What I'm saying now is that I want to be interpreted in any way as an effort to influence the voter," emphasized the Attorney General. "The voters should apply their own independent judgment."

He said the committee of inquiry wouldn't necessarily have to be entirely a legislative committee. It should be representative of several sections of life in B.C.

Aldermen 'Revolt' Against Harrison

Refuse to Pay Bills; Oppose Stand on Trip

A "revolt" against Mayor Claude Harrison was seen at a meeting of City Council's finance committee today.

The committee refused to approve payment of certain bills incurred by the chief magistrate, and moved against his refusal to attend a meeting in Calgary of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, June 29 to July 2.

The bills were $80 and $50 for stenographic work in connection with the mayor's inaugural address.

Aldermen also opposed payment of a telephone in an office set up by the mayor for the aldermen, on grounds there is an aldermen's room in City Hall.

On the question of attending the mayors' federation meeting, Ald. Waldo Skillings stormed:

"This is not a one-man show. It's a council. If the mayor doesn't want to go to Calgary send somebody else. It's imperative that we be represented."

IS IT LEGAL?

"Is it legal or not?" asked Ald. Brent Murdoch of City Solicitor Arthur Patton with regard to payment of the stenographic bills.

"If it was his inaugural address he has the right to go out and get it done," the solicitor replied, then added: "I don't know of any authority. I'll have to check into it."

The items were $80 to James Mahood for stenographic work done Dec. 29 and 30 and $50 for Harry Langley, Jan. 14 and 19. Although the Mahood work was done on the December dates, the bill was submitted in January.

"The mayor wasn't in office until Jan. 1," said Ald. Percy Scurrell, chairman.

Why go outside for the work when the mayor has a secretary? asked Ald. Skillings.

Sum of $48.80 requisitioned by the mayor's secretary for candy and cigarettes Feb. 19 was approved, but the committee forbade others unless approved first by the committee in charge of entertainment.

Mayor Harrison explained at the last council meeting the candy and cigarettes were requisitioned by his secretary and that when he learned of it, he ordered no further expenditures be made.

The committee will recommend to council that the city send a representative to the mayors' meeting.

The mayor had previously signified his intention of not attending in view of the city's financial position.

City Manager Cecil Wyatt said it was important that the city be represented.

British Columbia's Social Credit party has opened its first constituency headquarters in Victoria at 705 Pandora Avenue, formerly the City Health Centre.

The building also will serve as women's auxiliary headquarters and area council headquarters.

WRONG 'CHAN' COPS LET DOWN

City police felt honored for a few minutes Thursday when Charlie Chan called them up for assistance in tackling a knotty problem.

The honor was short-lived, however. It wasn't the famous sleuth but another guy named Chan who wanted some noisy drunks removed from a Johnson Street rooming house.

Huge Sum Cut From Victoria Works Budget

At its first "paring" session, city council's public works committee Thursday sliced $278,435 from the tentative streets work budget for 1952. Only $73,000 was left.

City Engineer Cyril Jones said first figures presented were merely for guidance of committee, which will select work in order of priority.

Reason for the action, said municipal officials, was that a surplus of $16,400 was shown over and above operating expenses for 1951. Council therefore brought forward $10,000, and placed $6,400 in a contingency reserve.

Moir Shearer, world-renowned British ballerina, and her writer-husband, Ludovic Kennedy, guests at Government House, are planning a 10-day fishing trip on the lower island. Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace, through liaison with Roger Monteith, has arranged for well-known fishing guide Joseph Hancock, at the headwaters of the Cowichan River, to take the distinguished visitors fishing during the first 10 days of next month.

The Governor and Monteith, both ardent outdoorsmen, are also arranging a fishing trip early in May when Maj. Gen. Harry Letson, secretary to the Governor-General of Canada, visits here.

Fish Packer Being Towed Into Port, Engine Dead

B.C. Packers' Coskeemo Drifted for 10 Hours Off Carmanah Point on W. Coast; Winds Light

B.C. Packer's 90-foot fish packer, Coskeemo, is being towed into Victoria after an engine breakdown left her drifting helplessly for 10 hours off Carmanah Point, West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The ship's 200-h.p. engine failed at 10:30 Thursday while she was towing a barge loaded with 250 tons of steel scrap. Island Tug and Barge's powerful towboat Island Challenger was dispatched to her aid, and got a line aboard at 8:30 this morning.

The tug is towing both the packer and the scow, and is expected to make Victoria about midnight tonight. There are light winds but heavy swell.

The packer's trouble developed about one mile off the coast, and she drifted to a point five miles southeast of Carmanah during the night.

SIREN IGNORED

Drivers Slow Police Car's Mercy Mission

Headless drivers on Thursday might have impaired the chances of survival of a 15-month-old boy who was being rushed to hospital in a Saanich police car.

The baby—son of Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman of 2825 Heath Drive—was stricken by a severe convulsion and had to be rushed to hospital.

Saanich police constable Robin Stewart picked up both mother and son and raced death to Jubilee Hospital—the youngster was gasping for his life on the way.

Today, Freeman expressed his gratitude to police for the speed with which the child was taken to hospital but strongly condemned "quite a few negligent drivers who failed to recognize the police siren."

He praised the "skill and cool-headedness" of constable Stewart in handling the emergency run through heavy downtown traffic.

But he blasted the drivers who "ignored the siren" and added that a delay in getting his son to hospital could have cost the baby his life.

PICKLES' TAX CUT PUZZLES DISTRICT

Central Saanich taxpayers are dubious about an announcement by Reeve Sydney Pickles that no municipal taxes will be imposed this year.

According to the reeve's statement at a special council meeting Thursday night, only a school tax of 46.3 mills will be charged.

"I believe it's a fine thing as long as they have enough money to carry on with," said one resident.

"In this place I don't dare say anything," another said.

"It sounds silly to me, and I think there is something wrong," said a third. "What will we do next year?"

Reason for the action, said municipal officials, was that a surplus of $16,400 was shown over and above operating expenses for 1951. Council therefore brought forward $10,000, and placed $6,400 in a contingency reserve.

"Last year, the first year of operation for the new municipality, the council was completely in the dark about income and expenses," an official said. "They therefore set a rate of 20 mills that would provide a wide margin of safety, and the surplus was the result."

SURE BY 1953

He expected that in 1953, with two full years of experience, a mill rate could be struck with accuracy.

There will still be income from the sales tax, Motor Vehicle grants, trades licenses, and other sources.

In 1951 the general rate was 20 mills, and the school rate 33.9 mills, making a total of 53.9 mills. Paying only the school tax of 46.3 mills this year provides a tax reduction of 7.5 mills.

SHOW SHORTENED

Japan's Great Artists' Work On Exhibition

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

A rare treat indeed awaits the visitor to the Moss Street Arts Centre this week. Unfortunately, through late arrival of the exhibition, it is only for this week and those who wish to see the fascinating collection of nearly 200 Japanese woodblock prints must make a point of doing so by Sunday.

The prints represent both the ancient and the contemporary schools of Japanese art. Curator Leslie Graham tells me that the exhibition is superior to anything shown in San Francisco during the signing of the Japanese peace treaty. Some of Japan's greatest artists are represented.

For anyone who has tried their hand at either wood or lino block printing, the show will be of the utmost interest. But few will fail to be entranced with the restrained elegance, the utter perfection of this work; especially the examples from the older period.

To attempt to describe or analyse an art that has eliminated all impurities, that has achieved the highest ideals of aestheticism in composition, utilization of form, tone and color relationship, is beyond the scope of this article.

One could make a long, long study of these prints and emerge with a considerably enriched understanding of the meaning of art. But it would take something more to enable us to express a rain-washed mountain slope or snow-powdered tree in the exquisite manner of these craftsmen.

The Japanese artist has an abiding patience; a spirituality that counts time as eternity, and a whole lifetime of small significance compared to the perfecting of a single line in art or poetry.

On the mezzanine gallery the contemporary prints are hung and the difference will immediately be noted. Here colors flare in bold contrast to the understatement, the veiled idealism of the older artists. Skillful work, but tainted; polluted by a strain of pragmatic westerner delogy.

Gone is the cunning balance of design; the characteristic decorative flat picture-plane. Much of this work is straight representational portrayal, but it retains the exotic element, nevertheless, and provides an interesting commentary on the inroads of western civilization and the changing viewpoint of the modern Japanese.

U.S. Navy's reserve training ship P.C. 1254, a 175-footer with 14 officers and 60 men, will visit Esquimalt harbor Friday and early Saturday.

The ship is due at Dockyard Jetty at 3 Friday afternoon, and will leave at 9 Saturday morning.

Science Can Save Continent's Dimming Sight

Unless a concerted effort is made to improve "aids to seeing" in homes, schools, offices and factories, the eyesight of this continent is in grave danger.

To support this belief, Sam Hibben, National President of the Illuminating Engineering Society, points to the fact that one out of five U.S. army inductees has poor eyesight; and that a similar proportion of U.S. school children do not see properly.

Hibben, New York city executive of Westinghouse, is in Victoria for the Pacific Northwest region conference of the association.

"By aids to seeing," he said this morning, "I mean colors and kinds of paint, draperies, rugs, furniture, ceilings. Light bulbs alone won't make a room ideal for seeing."

"Lighting, associated with correct decorative color schemes, can be a gracious part of living—as well as an essential utility."

Television has presented new problems for illuminating experts. "The idea of a bright screen in a gloomy, dark room is all wrong," says Hibben. "Even the area back of the screen should be lit. Otherwise, eyes moving from screen to darkness and back again are injured."

"Correct lighting for a television room, lighting that will not damage the eyes of our children, is a tough problem, but we are making progress."

The second day of the association meeting, in Empress Hotel, included speeches and discussions on office, school, home and street lighting. All sessions were devoted to developing the objective of the association—to develop "better seeing."

The Calendar Says It's Officially Spring Today

By PENNY SAVER

It's spring, tra-la!
Yup! As of today we can say it is officially spring. Oh, we may wake up in the morning and see the ground covered with snow, or whitened with frost, but nevertheless—it is spring.

It won't be long before all the trees are bursting with greenery, bushes are dotted with bright blooms and the gardens are aglow with flowers.

It's a wonderful feeling knowing that winter is behind you and ahead lie the refreshing days of spring and warm sunny days of summer.

Now, if you are at all like me one of the first things you will think of with the turn of the season is a new outfit. Am I right? I thought so!

Goodness only knows just what you will have in mind. It may be a dress or a crisp blouse with appropriate skirt.

I've seen lots of adorable dresses in town, blouses and skirts, too, but one outfit that I saw I thought would interest you in particular.

To begin with it was the perkliest little spring coat. Full length with a gored skirt at the back and neatly belted at the waist. The price was $22.95 and to go with this topper was a smart cloche and pouch shoulder bag both trimmed with black velvet.

The hat is $2.95, the bag, $5.95.
Hold on! There's more. To match this striking ensemble you may, if you wish, buy a matching skirt for $7.98. It's casual and trim with large patch pockets trimmed with black velvet.

Found another outfit in green velvet. The coat is styled with dirndl back and is also belted. Priced $24.50.

A matching hat is $2.95, and the bag is $5.95.

There you are, you're all set for this wonderful season called spring.

TUBBY HUBBY DIET

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Wives Wonder About Their Tubby Hubbies

(The Friday Question Box)

The wives of tubby hubbies are asking:

Q. "My husband cannot resist desserts when he sees them. However, since the children and I are slim it seems unfair to have to do without our desserts just because he is reducing."

A. Give him a break. It is difficult to see others eat rich foods when you cannot. You and the children can load up on the goodies at some other time rather than at the evening meal. Have them just before going to bed at night.

Q. "My husband likes to drink beer or have a cocktail or so at lunch when eating with friends. Won't this spoil his efforts at reducing?"

A. He will be much more successful if he leaves off all alcoholic beverages and soft drinks for 12 days. Surely he can do this. The items you mention count up rapidly in calories and, on a restricted diet, he needs all of the allowed calories for protective foods.

Q. "I haven't any control over my husband's lunch. I imagine it would be possible for lunch to ruin the whole project, wouldn't it?"

A. It surely would be. He will have to co-operate in this matter. Give him the menu for lunch to take with him each morning and remind him that those seemingly small items such as gravy and mayonnaise are chock full of calories. Impress on him the fact that it will be much easier if he will just stick to the diet for this short 12 days.

Q. "Is my husband supposed to have no butter at all?"

A. If he wishes he can have one medium pat daily which you will divide in the way which makes him happiest and most comfortable. Measure it out at the beginning of each day and put a dot on the eggs, a bit on the baked potato—and so forth, as he wishes—but do not go over that pat!

Q. "Why can't my husband use your Nine-Day Diet which was so successful for me?"

A. Because of their greater stature men require more calories than women even when losing weight.

Q. "My husband keeps saying that he can lose his weight just by exercising. Is this true?"

A. Tain't so. He will have to diet to lose those pounds, although exercise is helpful in getting rid of bulges by distributing weight and in firming him up.

Here is his food for tomorrow: Fifth day—Breakfast: One helping of stewed prunes or apricots (little sugar used). One poached or boiled egg. Two pieces of toast (preferably whole wheat). Coffee.

Luncheon—One large hamburger cake. Stewed tomatoes. Celery sticks. Two pieces of whole wheat toast (dry). One glass of skimmed milk or buttermilk. Coffee if desired.

Mid-afternoon, one orange. Dinner—Lean steak (generous). Medium helping of cauliflower. One baked potato. One apple. Large glass of tomato juice before retiring.

If you have missed some of the previous days, send in the 12-day Tubby Hubby Diet in a handy booklet, simply send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Recordings from the extensive collection of Allan Pratt illustrated biographies of the great operatic composers given by Mildred Duncan, Margery Vaughan and Doreen Radcliffe, and vocal selections by Joy Stamford, Ellen Paul, Margaret Christison and Dr. Manning further contributed to the listeners' enjoyment. Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A couple of weeks ago when Art Stott commenced talking of sowing vegetable seeds and cutting his lawn, I had an idea spring must be somewhere around the corner.

When our editor, Bruce Hutchison, told you earlier this week he was planting early potatoes, I knew spring was nearly here.

Then, yesterday afternoon Monte Roberts started burbling about spring in his column.

I couldn't stand it any longer. I went home an hour earlier. Got into my slacks and an old sweater. Dug out some garden tools and strutted out into the garden.

I cleared some leaves away from the iris (ouch! My back!) Forked around the tulips. (Oooh! My knees!) Gently eased a dozen primulas back into the ground after the old winter heave-ho.

(C-r-e-k-k-k!) That's my neck! I picked some violets. (My! My wrists are stiff!)

Then I put the tools away and went back in the house. (My poor shoulders!)

Even if the calendar and the columnists didn't tell me so today I'd know it was spring!

Someone Got a Bargain in New Coat

There's a story going the rounds among members of the Junior Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital. It has to do with the Thrift Shop the auxiliary runs as one of its projects—and an almost brand new coat.

The coat belonged to Mrs. Monte Porter, who, with other members of the auxiliary, gives a certain number of hours a week to serving customers in the little shop on Cormorant Street.

It was a fine wool, navy blue shortie coat. It had the crest of the yacht club to which Mrs. Porter belongs, stitched neatly on its left side.

When Mrs. Porter went in the Thrift Shop she was carrying the coat home from the cleaners. She placed it carefully at the back of the shop by the cash register and immediately started serving several customers.

You see, the Thrift Shop features good used clothing of all kinds, for children and for grown-ups, and it has many customers, for the prices are reasonable and most of the articles are in splendid condition.

Mrs. Porter was busy that morning. More than ordinarily so. And because she worked a little longer than she expected and had another appointment afterward, she dashed out of the shop and forgot her navy blue coat.

Back home, she immediately telephoned the shop. But the coat was gone. Someone had evidently bought it.

When auxiliary members looked up sales for the day, they discovered the highest amount received was 35c.

So someone got an almost brand new navy blue coat for perhaps 35c.

Speaks well for quality of clothing sold in the Thrift Shop doesn't it, when it could be possible that a coat like Mrs. Porter's might be for sale there.

This Snow-Hail Stuff Can Be Deceiving

Remember? We had snow one morning early this week? Or was it hail? Or perhaps snow-hail?

Anyway, when Victorians got up that morning, their lawns were white with the stuff. And it was lying around on the roof tops.

Miss Gwen Scott saw the hail-snow as she looked out her window. And, as she walks quite a few blocks on her way to her library every morning, she was glad that as the sun came up, the snow-hail melted away.

But she got quite a shock, when she finally started out for work.

For, as she faded out her front door and looked across the street, she saw a great expanse of white covering the lawn on the other side of the street.

"I thought to myself—'goodness, more snow,'" she says when she tells the story. "Then, I looked around and saw there was no snow on our lawn and I thought, 'My our neighbor must have a sheltered spot if the snow stays that long over there.'"

By this time, Gwen had crossed the road and was looking closer at the snow-hail on her neighbor's lawn.

"It was lime! Spread carefully over every inch of the lawn! 'Did I feel foolish!'" Gwen says, with a quiet chuckle as she finishes this story she tells on herself.

U.S. Senate Ratifies Japanese Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP).—The United States Senate ratified the Japanese peace treaty Thursday 6½ years after the end of the Second World War.

The treaty formally ends the war between Japan and the Allies and recognizes Japan's full sovereignty over her home islands but needs still another country to ratify it before it goes into effect.

By voice vote, the Senate also ratified two security pacts—one with the Philippines and one with Australia and New Zealand. The chamber voted 58 to 9 to ratify a security treaty with Japan granting the United States the right to post military forces in and around Japan for the maintenance of peace anywhere in the Far East, including Korea.

The treaty previously had been approved by five nations: Great Britain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and Ceylon.

It will take effect as soon as one more of the following countries ratifies it: Canada, France, Indonesia, Netherlands, Pakistan and the Philippines.

Amazing New TB Drug Offered Hospitals Free

BLOOMFIELD, N.J., March 21 (AP).—Three million tablets of the new anti-TB drug were made available to 255 United States hospitals for human tests.

Selected Canadian hospitals also will receive some of the drug. That amount is enough to treat 2,500 patients for six months.

The offer by Schering Corporation, was made to give answers sooner as to just how good the tuberculosis-fighting drug is, the drug firm said.

The drug, isonicotinic acid hydrazide, has shown promising and even startling results in first trials of several hundred patients. TB experts have cautioned it still is too early to tell whether TB germs may become resistant to it, or to answer some other questions.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Of all the feathered folk in the Green Forest none is more fierce than Hooty the Great Horned Owl. He is fierce and he is fearless. But he is in despair now and so was Mrs. Hooty, who is just as fierce and bold and daring.

ONTARIO LAUDED
City in Chips
If Province
Paid in Taxes

If the B.C. government were to follow the example of Ontario and pay municipal taxes on its business and administrative offices, Victoria would be "in the chips."

Ontario's break with tradition was announced Thursday in the provincial legislature by Premier Frost.

"It would mean, I believe, an extra $286,000 in tax income for Victoria," said Ald. Waldo Skillings.

City Manager Cecil Wyatt placed the figure at $280,695.

"It would go a long way toward alleviating the load on our taxpayers," he said.

Are you kidding? asked Councillor L. H. Passmore of Saanich, when asked if he approved of the Ontario action.

"We're not affected to the same extent as the city, but nevertheless we provide services to provincial institutions. I don't see why we can't get some taxes in return," he said.

Oak Bay is not affected, and Esquimalt's main problem is with the federal government.

Premier Frost said in his annual budget address that the publicly-owned "Ontario Hydro" and municipal commissions also will pay municipal taxes on their lands and buildings.

He estimated the cost to the province at $2,000,000, with a similar amount for hydro.

The restrictions are in effect 24 hours a day, police added.

The signs caught a number of motorists recently when they parked to attend a concert at the school.

They found parking tickets firmly plastered to the windshield of their cars.

Police say the "no parking" signs are plainly visible.

Lower Freight Rates May Take Away Trucking Jobs

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP).—More than 1,000 highway truck operators will be put out of work by a proposed reduction in rates by the railways for two oil companies in western Canada, the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association Thursday told Transport Minister Chevrier.

The association said the threat to the truckmen came in a new "agreed charge" contract due to go into effect April 1 among the two big railways, Imperial Oil Company and North Star Oil Ltd.

Agreed-charge deals are freight rate contracts with sizeable shippers whereby the railways give them a favorable toll in return for a guaranteed share of their business. The C.A.T.A. told the minister in a brief that in the case under protest, the contracting oil companies would be required to ship at least 75 per cent of their traffic by rail, in some cases as high as 100 per cent.

The special low rates would operate between the head of the lakes and the Pacific coast, the C.A.T.A. said.

In the first presentation it has ever made to the federal government, the C.A.T.A. suggested that the Transport Act be amended to allow them to make submissions to the railway-regulating board of transport commissioners in cases of this kind. Truckers cannot do this now because the trucking industry generally is under provincial jurisdiction.

C.A.T.A. officials said later most of those it expected to be displaced by the new agreed charge are in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

'Incentive' Budget
Wins First Approval

LONDON, March 21 (CP).—The British government's "incentive" budget, brought down nine days ago, won initial approval in the House of Commons Thursday.

Five Labor attacks on the record £4,200,000,000 budget, which trimmed the welfare state but offered incentives for harder work, were beaten down on division.

Egyptians Jailed

CAIRO, Egypt, March 21 (Reuters).—Three Egyptians were sentenced to seven years at hard labor by court-martial Thursday for their part in attacking and setting fire to the Shell Sports Club in the "black Saturday" riots here Jan. 26. One 15-year-old boy was sent to reform school and three men were acquitted on similar charges.

School Grants Hotly Debated

Ottawa Legislators Argue Motion Six Hours; Drew Asks Conference

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP)—The question of giving Canada's children a better chance to obtain an education ran into a constitutional sidetrack in the Commons Thursday.

In a debate that waxed more academic than practical, government and opposition members tossed the question back and forth across the floor for six hours. When the debate ended, their opinions were as wide apart as ever.

The discussion arose on a private resolution by R. R. Knight (C.C.F., Saskatoon) urging the federal government to consider making grants to the provinces as a means of "expanding and equalizing" educational opportunities across Canada.

The motion was "talked out"—parliamentary device for making sure it does not reach, perhaps, an embarrassing vote. It had been debated two days, Wednesday and Thursday.

Government members, led by Justice Minister Garson, contended the government should supervise the spending of such grants and that would be an interference with the provinces' constitutional authority over education.

Opposition members agreed the provinces must remain supreme in that field, but suggested the federal authority could make grants without influencing their expenditure.

PROVIDE MORE MONEY

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader and former Ontario minister of education, called for a federal-provincial conference to readjust tax fields to provide the provinces with more money for education.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said the hub of the problem was that education required more and more financing and the municipalities and the provinces could not carry the burden.

In the opening stages, Prime Minister St. Laurent served notice that he will propose that Parliament recess from Wednesday, April 9, to Monday, April 21, for Easter.

Mr. Garson suggested the grant the federal government now makes to universities should not be taken as an admission that it should contribute to primary education. Universities were non-political while primary schools were under the direct control of the province.

If it made large grants for primary education the federal treasury "simply" could not defend handing out these large sums of money to the legislatures without assuming some responsibility as to the manner in which they would be spent.

He suggested the provinces already have enough money to expand educational expenditures if they wished.

Mr. Drew argued that the federal government could accept the motion "without in any way infringing" upon provincial jurisdiction. The future of the country was "dangerously" threatened by the possibility the provinces might not be able to advance their educational facilities.

Wilfrid Lacroix (L., Quebec-Montmorency) charged that Premier Duplessis of Quebec had "committed a dirty trick" when he accepted federal university grants. He had gone against his own statement that he never would accept a federal grant.

Quebecers did not want federal grants for education.

Audre Gauthier (L., Lac St. Jean) expressed his determination to oppose any attempt by the federal government to interfere with provincial rights in that field. He doubted that Quebec ever would ask for aid for primary education.

PROVINCES MUST AGREE

Leonard Tremblay (L., Dorchester) said there should be no federal aid unless the provinces agreed to it.

Walter Dinsdale (P.C., Brandon), former assistant professor of social science at Brandon College, blamed the church and the home for the crisis in education. They were not doing the job they should.

J. H. Harrison (L., Meadow Lake) suggested the federal government would become nothing more than a "collection agency" if it collected taxes and passed the money to the provinces.

John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) said the resolution did not call for federal interference with education. It merely paraphrased an old saying: "Federal assistance ever, federal supervision never."

George Hees (P.C., Toronto Broadview) suggested any federal grants, which should be unconditional, (should be used by the provinces to raise the salaries of teachers. In that way, the grants would not interfere with policy-making and would serve to equalize opportunities across the country.

Joseph Noseworthy (C.C.F., York South), warning that a "crisis" is developing in the availability of teachers, said it is the heritage of every child "to get the best education that Canada—not any particular province—can provide." The burden should no longer be left to municipalities and provinces.

Connaught Club foursome—Norm Walker, Pat Spray, Audrey Downie and Brian Power—will be one of several out-of-town groups to appear on pink and magenta ice in "Ice Capers of 1952" at Arena Saturday afternoon and night and Monday night. They are western four champions, and Pat Spray and Walker are Canadian junior pair champions. Audrey Downie and Power are western senior pair champions.

THE RAIL BIRD

Say, Listen you Cougars, and the other teams, too. Have you any idea what you're putting me thru? It's all very well for you on that ice. But what's happening to me, it just isn't nice. You've got a stick, to do all your flaying. But all I've got is a thick iron railing. YOU can swing in abandonment.

But MY pipes I can't yank from the cement. Yes, it's all very well, you're as free as the stars. But I'm just a prisoner behind my cold bars. And so is the G.F. in her cell No. 10.

Tho she's the less boisterous up there in our pen. It isn't too bad, when the rap you bear. I use my bars to relax my big feet. It's when you are trailing, I put on my stripes. Then I yank like a Tarzan to bend back my pipes. But they won't budge despite their length. She munches peanuts, says I don't know my strength. Yet last Tuesday night, as frantic as me, She got so desperate she kicked with her knee.

Twas that gangling attack, six men for a goal. She opened her mouth, put a peanut in whole. At the bars she kicked & poked. Then she coughed and nearly choked.

YOU won't choke, or kick up a row At the prices we have in OUR hoose-gow. So, — jump in the wagon & come on down. You'll raise an eye-brow instead of a frown.

So, for Gosh Sakes, Cougars, this Friday nite, Don't wait till the end, to put up a fight. Pile up that lead, at OUR end of the rink. It's Section 17, where we sit in the blink. We've been in there all winter, sometimes elated. But mostly bar-clutching, & sadly frustrated. It's quite a relief, that cement so hard.

To get out for coffee, & go stroll in the yard. Yet, ALWAYS we know, we gotta go back. Locked in our cell, to renew the attack.

They say we're NOT doomed, tho' the pardon slim. A chance for reprieve, the outlook quite dim. But somehow I think, we'll share in the spoils. And you'll wallop the tar from the Westminster Royals. At last I'll go peacefully, grab my wench. We'll hug each other off our hard wooden bench. "A REPRIEVE . . . A REPRIEVE . . . however short." We clutch on our bars for better support. Just one more day our chains to rattle.

Then the pay-off . . . WHEN WE FLATTEN SEATTLE.

DRUG TRAFFIC AT OAKALLA ALL ADMITTED BY WISMER

Crown Attacks Sexton's Story

Husband Death Car Driver, McKenna Claims;
Jury Takes Manslaughter Case Late Today

The jury should not believe Frederick Sexton's story that his wife drove the car which fatally injured five-year-old Elizabeth Fisher Dec. 12, declared Joseph McKenna, Q.C., when he closed the manslaughter case for the Crown against Sexton today.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson adjourned court for half an hour on McKenna's conclusion. He was expected to sum up at 4 o'clock.

"I say the accused was driving his car all the time," McKenna insisted. "One minute it's the husband taking the responsibility to shield his wife. Here it is the wife taking the responsibility to shield the husband."

"What are you going to believe?"

"I say I can't believe their testimony," McKenna said. He argued that even if the wife had been driving, Sexton was still responsible for control of the car. He questioned whether any driver would have allowed an inexperienced woman to take control of the car.

"The evidence indicates someone told him to say he wasn't driving," McKenna suggested. Gordon Poupore, defense counsel, told the jury his client was giving his wife her first driving lesson the day of the fatal accident.

Question of whether or not Sexton was criminally negligent and was the principal offender in the incident will likely be dealt with by Mr. Justice Wilson in his summation to the jury later this afternoon.

The judge's summary of the trial was to be given as soon as final arguments for conviction and acquittal had been presented by the two counsels.

Joseph McKenna is Crown prosecutor in the case and Gordon Poupore is acting for the defense.

This morning, jury members visited the scene of the fatality on Gladstone Avenue and then heard further evidence in court from the accused, and Crown witnesses Roy E. Harris and Constable Walter Calwell.

Harris was recalled at the request of the jury. He reiterated earlier testimony that he had seen Sexton get out of the left-hand front door of the car.

Might Have Jumped Fence

Constable Calwell was questioned as to whether or not Sexton could have left the car by the right door and walked around back, as he claimed. Calwell said the rear of the car was jammed against a fence and that it was not likely anyone could have walked around behind it. Under cross-examination, he admitted Sexton could have gone around the back if he had jumped the fence twice.

Harry W. Norris is jury foreman.

Thursday Sexton denied being the driver of a car which struck and killed the three-year-old girl last Dec. 12.

He took the stand in his own behalf Thursday afternoon, and testified his wife, Helen, was behind the wheel at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Sexton backed up her husband's testimony. She said she had not revealed before that she was driving, because her husband had wanted to assume the responsibility.

Sexton testified he had given a signed statement to police, declaring himself the driver, in order to protect his wife.

Accused said his wife had never before driven an automobile.

VICTORIAN QUITS HIGH OTTAWA POST

Max Mackenzie
Joins Celanese

OTTAWA, March 21 (CP)—Victorian Max W. Mackenzie, deputy minister of defense production and one of the government's top economic advisers, is resigning from his post, it was learned today.

After about 13 years of association with the government in various high-level positions, the 44-year-old economist is accepting an appointment with the Canadian Celanese Corporation.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is expected to make an announcement shortly on the resignation and the appointment of a successor.

Mackenzie, who was born in Victoria, was right-hand man to C. D. Howe, both in defense production and the trade department where he was deputy for six years.

A chartered accountant, Mackenzie came to the government in 1939 to help set up the War-time Prices and Trade Board in 1942 and became deputy chairman the following year. He became deputy minister of trade in 1945 and when Canada embarked on its new defense production program in 1951 he became deputy minister of the new defense production department.

Four Academy Awards for Victorian

A Victorian was among the Hollywood personalities who stepped up to the stage of the Pantages Theatre Thursday night to receive an Academy Award.

He is Richard Day, winner of the prize for the best art direction in a black-and-white movie in 1951. He received his award for his work in "Streetcar Named Desire."

If any of this year's prize-winners felt at home on the stage, Day should have been the one. He has received Oscars on three previous occasions.

Day was born in Victoria and went to University School here. He was one of six children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Day, who built a fine home on Rockland Avenue when that street was little more than a cow trail.

Sutton Goes on Trial

B.C. TIGHTENS UP ON MEAT IMPORTS

Only Live Animals Will Be Permitted to Cross
Border From Prairies; Permit Delay Protested

EDMONTON, March 21 (CP)—Agriculture Minister David Ure today bitterly denounced the B.C. government's regulations for easing that province's ban on prairie livestock. He said "all it does is attempt to split Alberta and our livestock industry into two separate parts."

He was trying to arrange plane passage to Victoria today to protest in person to the B.C. agriculture department and attempt to arrange a better solution to the problem.

British Columbia, yielding to the demands of the cattle industry, today tightened up once again on its meat and livestock embargo relaxed only last Wednesday.

The agriculture department has ruled that only live animals (cattle, sheep and swine) can be imported to B.C. They must be slaughtered immediately on arrival.

No more permits will be issued for importation of carcasses, but those already in B.C. en route to market will be allowed to continue to destination.

The embargo was imposed three weeks ago to guard the province against the dread foot-and-mouth disease which broke out near Regina.

Dr. W. R. Gunn, livestock commissioner, has informed all interested parties of the new ruling which will stand until further notice. Telegrams went out this morning to livestock brokers, stockmen, freight yards and agents, R.C.M.P., slaughterhouses and packers.

The order is effective immediately, but it will be reviewed from time to time as the situation warrants.

Live animals to be imported to B.C. still must go through the rigid inspection service set up earlier in the week. Approval certificates must be issued by Federal inspectors in Edmonton. A provincial inspector is on hand there to issue on the spot permits giving the provincial okay to B.C. bound shipments.

The ban on carcasses apparently has been ordered because it is usually more difficult to trace their origin than livestock. B.C. is taking every precaution to make sure none of the livestock shipped here comes from anywhere near the infected Regina area.

Alberta's Agriculture Minister David Ure said in Edmonton today that special permits from the Local beef is still available, they said, at wholesale prices ranging downward from 63 cents. They expect a slight reduction in price if Alberta beef becomes available through lifting of the B.C.-imposed embargo against beef shipments to protect against foot-and-mouth disease. Packers stated they knew of no shipments from Alberta to date.

MOVING DOUK SECT MAY COST $1,000,000

Committee Thinks 'Sons' Should Repay Part of High Expenditure

Relocation of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors at Adams Lake, 100 miles from Kamloops, could cost as high as $1,000,000, according to the report of the consultative committee on the problem.

The committee recommended the Sons of Freedom should be required to repay part of this capital cost, but the Doukhobors do not agree. They argue they have lost their lands twice in Canada and have nothing to show for 50 years' work.

Between 250 and 500 families would move to Adams Lake, if that location is finally chosen. The $1,000,000 cost, which could be considerably lower if fewer families move, would be made available for land clearing and irrigation, erection of buildings and maintenance while waiting for a first crop.

MAY BE INADEQUATE
The Doukhobors feel the $500,000 to $1,000,000 cost estimate for relocation may be inadequate because the area is so wild.

They also doubt whether the five-acre per family plots recommended would be large enough to provide minimum subsistence. They felt eight to 10 acres would be more suitable, and for this reason have asked that 1,000 to 1,500 acres be reserved on nearby Seymour Arm. The request for reservation of that land has been recommended by the committee.

Disclosure Follows Statement by Judge

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer admitted today there is traffic in drugs at Oakalla jail.

He was asked to comment on a statement reportedly made by Judge Bruce Boyd in county court at Vancouver on conditions at the prison farm.

The judge refused to send a female narcotics addict to Oakalla because: "I know you can get drugs there."

Instead, he sentenced 27-year-old June Secord to two years in Kingston Penitentiary in Ontario. The woman was charged with possession of one capsule of heroin.

ABSOLVES OFFICERS

"You have a terrible record," the judge told her. "And I am not going to sentence you to Oakalla because I know you can get drugs in Oakalla, although it is not the fault of the officers," the judge said.

Attorney-General Wismer said the judge was right.

"Occasionally drugs find their way into Oakalla," he told a Victoria Times reporter.

"We are watching it all the time and we have the operation of the R.C.M.P. in the matter," he was quick to add.

It was a fact, Wismer revealed, that an Oakalla prisoner was prosecuted about a year ago for being in possession of drugs in the jail.

The attorney-general claimed the large turnover of prisoners at Oakalla made the prison farm vulnerable to the traffic.

He said, too, that the situation was made difficult by the fact that prisoners, while awaiting trial, were allowed to prepare their defense which required conferences with visitors "from outside."

Warden of Oakalla, John L. Millman, said "only a trickle" of drugs got into the prison.

"And they certainly don't get through them screens in the visiting sections," he said.

The warden pointed to the huge area of the farm and suggested that drugs could be thrown over the miles of fences of the prison for inmates to pick up.
